Vietminh Begins Violent Artillery Smash on Fortress

Dien Bien Phu Defenders Retaliate; May Mean New Assaults by Red Forces

Hanoi, Indochina, April 9 (AP)—The Communist-led Vietminh unleashed a "violent" artillery bombardment on Dien Bien Phu today in what might be a prelude to a new infantry assault on the beseiged French fortress in northwest Indochina.

A French communique said the defenders answered back with tremendous barrages as the rebels rained down thousands of shells from their 105 and 75-millimeter artillery and heavy mortars in the hills encircling the French-held plain.

Such artillery stepups have heralded the Vietminh's two previous attempts to overrun the fortress, a two-day wave of assaults beginning March 13 and six days of repeated attacks on various corners of the plain's defenses which ended last Monday.

In Four or Five Days

Some French army sources, however, still believed the Vietminh renewal would not come for another "four or five days."

The artillery duel started after the French had reported the lull in the Dien Bien Phu area had continued through its fourth successive night.

The French defenders and their rebel besiegers were utilizing the "calm" to intensify their feverish buildup of men and supplies for the expected showdown "battle of Geneva."

It was clear the Viethminh would have to strike soon, however, if they hope to win a big victory before the East-West Conference on Asia opens in Geneva April 26.

Farther south in Indochina, King Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia ordered general mobilization in his kingdom and announced he would appeal to the United Nations against Vietminh aggression there. French observers said they considered the king's decree an appeal to world conscience and not a formal request for UN action.

Prompted by Invasion

The young sovereign's moves were prompted by a small-scale invasion of Cambodia by about two battalions of Vietminh from Laos eight days ago. So far, only scattered actions have been reported in the vicinity of the Laos-Cambodia border.

Senator Bridges Seeks Reappraisal in Light of Present World Situation

Washington, April 9 (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R-N. H.) said today that Congress ought to "reappraise the whole foreign aid picture in the light of the current world situation," particularly the Indochina crisis.

Bridges, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, made the statement to newsmen at the White House after a breakfast conference with President Eisenhower. He said, however, that he did not discuss foreign aid or the situation in Indochina with Eisenhower in any detail.

Earlier Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) had said that any effort by Congress to use foreign aid to pressure Britain and France into a united front against communism in southeast Asia would boomerang.

"It would play right into the Kremlin's hands," Humphrey said in an interview. "It would be just like cutting off your nose to spite your face.

Bridges said Secretary of State Dulles had canceled a scheduled appearance before the Senate Appropriations Committee this afternoon because of the secretary's plans to fly to London and Paris to appeal to the British and French for support of his program of "united action" against any new Communist aggression in southeast Asia.

The State Department said yesterday that Dulles was considering such a trip.

Position Would Be Better

Bridges said it was his understanding that Dulles feels he would be in a better position to talk to the committee after consulting with the British and the French.

The senator said his conference with the President dealt generally with the budget situation and timing for various appropriation bills.

In response to a question, Bridges said he and Eisenhower touched only generally on the situation in Indochina in talking about the broad picture of federal spending.

Asked for his own views on Indochina, Bridges said he first wanted to make it clear that what he would say in no way reflected his conversation with the President.

Then he called for "a reappraisal of the whole foreign aid picture in the light of the current world situation, and the willingness of our allies to cooperate."

He stressed that he was talking about cooperative "action and not mere words."

Should Be Continued

Bridges said the American program of foreign aid should be

Tax Equalization Will Be Topic at C. of C. Meeting

Thorne, Simpson, Scace Will Attend Annual Session to Give Information

Tax equalization and assessments will be one of the important topics to be discussed at the annual membership meeting of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce Wednesday, April 21 in the Crystal Room of the Gov. Clinton Hotel starting at 8 o'clock. President N. Jansen Fowler will preside.

J. Russell Thorne, executive director and James A. Simpson of the State Board of Equalization and Assessment in Albany will be in attendance. Thorne will be the speaker. Homer Scace, tax and budgetary expert of the Empire State Chamber of Commerce, will also be present. All three will be prepared, as the best authorities on the subject available, to answer any questions those present care to ask on the subject of equalization rates and taxes. Thorne is a past president of the New York State Association of Real Estate Boards and has had a great deal of practical experience in the field of property assessments.

21 Persons Missing on Anglo Plane

Several Bodies Found by Navy Craft — 35 Are Dead in Collision in Canada

Naples, Italy, April 9 (AP)—Navy craft searching for a British jet Comet airliner missing with 21 persons on a Rome-to-Cairo flight today reported finding several bodies and debris floating in the Mediterranean Sea.

The Italian navy corvette Obis, part of a four-nation sea and air team, radioed headquarters here of the find. It said the bodies were being taken aboard. Three Americans were aboard the Comet.

A British plane was reported circling over the spot to mark it for the other searchers.

A long oil slick about 50 miles south of Capri drew attention at dawn. The pilot of a U. S. PBY Flying Boat, Lt. David Jones, reported sighting debris in that area this afternoon. Other debris was seen by a British airliner about 80 miles farther south, near the toe of the Italian boot.

Three Americans were listed among the 14 passengers aboard the big jetliner which disappeared after it left Rome early last night on a flight to Cairo.

The Americans were:

O. L. Anderson of American Fork, Utah, bound from London to Cairo.

Floyd R. Harbinson of Pittsburgh, Pa., a Westinghouse engineer on his way to Cairo to supervise repairs on a small power station.

Ray L. Wilkinson, 63, a manufacturer of Marblehead and Salem, Mass., en route to Livingtone, Africa, on a combination business-pleasure trip.

All Comets Grounded

For the second time in three months all Comets, pride of Britain's air transport industry, were grounded for investigation. Over Europe, Africa and Asia British airlines transferred their passengers to piston-engine aircraft.

A vast four-nation armada of planes and ships searched wide stretches of the Mediterranean.

The big oil slick a mile and a quarter long, sighted first by a U. S. Navy plane 50 miles due south of the Isle of Capri, was the first possible clue to the fate of the airliner.

But the searchers in that area at noon (7 a. m. EST) today reported they had found neither debris nor wreckage. They said they had covered an area 250 miles long and 125 miles southwest of Naples.

In London, the stunned British government ordered a full inquiry. Sir Miles Thomas, chairman of British Overseas Airways Corp., (BOAC), said: "We have got to do some very fundamental thinking about the Comet altogether."

Freezing of Cash Called 'Breach of Faith With Congress'; Rejections Are Made

Washington, April 9 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today voted the Agriculture Department more funds than it requested for next year, but accused Secretary Benson of "a breach of faith" with Congress.

The committee sent to the House floor for debate next Monday a bill carrying $698,741,813 in cash and $320,500,000 in loan authority for the department for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

This is the exact amount of cash the department requested through the budget bureau, but the contract authority is 45 million dollars more than had been sought. The new cash is about 36 million less than the department received this year, while the loan authorization is 64 million less.

Entire Sum Authorized

The committee authorized the entire 250 millions requested by the department for the conservation program for the 1955 crop year. Money to finance this authorization, which includes soil conservation subsidies, will be provided in next year's appropriation bill.

While allowing the department the amount of new cash it requested, the committee cut some of the projects in the overall farm program and recommended that the money thus saved go to the school lunch program.

It disagreed with the department's plan to cut the budget of "action programs" and to shift emphasis to research and extension activities. The department had proposed cuts for the forest service, the soil conservation service, the crop insurance program, the rural electrification administration, the farmers home administration and the school lunch program, and for disease and pest control.

Approves Partially

The committee approved about 50 per cent of the increase proposed for state experiment stations and over 45 per cent of the increase sought for the extension service. It rejected the department's proposal to eliminate funds for indemnity payments for livestock destroyed in connection with the tuberculosis and Bang's disease control program.

Many of the reductions proposed by the department, the committee said, were on "an arbitrary and unrealistic basis."

Another "arbitrary" action, the committee said, was Secretary Benson's freezing of funds of some of the "action programs" last fall only a few months after the department had pleaded with Congress for even more money than was finally voted.

It called this action "a breach of faith with the Congress" and said it "seriously damages confidence and working relationships."

It is for Congress to determine the scope of the various departmental programs, the committee commented, and the intent of Congress should not be thwarted by the freezing of funds appropriated.

Nine Are Injured In Area Accident

Two Vehicles Demolished Near Wurtsboro—Youth Hurt Critically

Nine persons were injured, one of them critically, in a head-on automobile collision on Route 17 about a mile and a half west of Wurtsboro on Thursday afternoon, state police reported.

The accident involved six New York city teenagers in one car and a family of three from Utica in the other, troopers said. Both vehicles were demolished.

Critically injured was Andrew Backenheimer, 17, of Flushing, Queens. At the Middletown Sanitarium this morning, Backenheimer's attending physician said the youth was still on the "critical list" but was "doing as well as we can expect." Reported in "fair" condition at the sanitarium are Richard Rolfe, 18, Edward Schuster, 17, and Gerald Delet, 18, all of Manhattan.

At Middletown Hospital

Taken to Horton Memorial Hospital in Middletown were Robert Gruver, 17, and Stuart Simke, 18, both also of Manhattan. Gruver's condition was reported as "poor" immediately after the accident, but hospital authorities today indicated he had shown some improvement during the night and listed him as "fair." Simke's condition also was "fair."

In fair condition at Monticello Hospital were Jeremiah J. Wonderstock, 34; his wife, Edith, 32, and son, James, 4, of Utica.

Troopers at the Wurtsboro station said the accident happened about 3:15 p. m. Full details had not been compiled because all the occupants of both cars were injured, the troopers said. No arrest has been made.

'Fingers' Quincy Man as One of Looters of Armored Truck in Danvers

Boston, April 9 (AP)—James J. O'Leary, 31, today was under the protective custody of the FBI after he dramatically pointed out George D. O'Brien, 44, of Quincy, as one of four men who looted an armored truck of $681,700 in Danvers Square March 25, 1952.

He pointed a finger at O'Brien in the latter's larceny trial in Federal Court yesterday and swore he was one of the men who rifled the money-carrying vehicle on a bright forenoon while its three guards sipped coffee in a nearby drugstore.

O'Leary, of 4705 15th avenue, Woodside, Queens, N. Y., a one-time Holy Cross College track star, said he told no one of what he allegedly saw until "a day or two later" when he contacted FBI Agent Edward McNamara of Boston, with whom he had attended College.

He said he kept the secret from everyone else, including Danvers police, his mother, father and sister, to spare his family "the anxiety."

Surprise Testimony

He said in his surprise testimony yesterday:

"I was returning to my office (in Danvers) from the post office. As I crossed the street I saw a black sedan parked parallel to the curb in back of the truck which was parked at an angle at the curb in front of the drug store.

"I saw a crowd gather and men passing bags from the armored truck to the black sedan.

"Then another car drove up and parked parallel with the other sedan, near the middle of the street.

"A man got out and joined the others as if making sure everything was going all right."

O'Leary's testimony was brought out under questioning, separately, by Asst. U. S. Atty. Edward D. Hassan and Defense Attorney Paul T. Smith.

Wore Big Hat

"He wore a big hat and a burberry kind of a coat, a tweed or check."

Hassan told O'Leary to "look around and see if you can point out the man."

"Yes, I can, that man there with his hand to his chin," O'Leary replied.

O'Brien stood up impassively and promptly when ordered to.

O'Leary half stood from the witness chair and said "yes, that's the man."

The witness said he stood watching the transfer for "five to seven minutes and left." He added that

Homeowners' Winter Fuel Use Is Lower

The average homeowner of Kingston and vicinity this winter saved more than 10 per cent in fuel consumption over the normal winter, local fuel dealers estimate.

The savings approximate those of homeowners across the country, where according to trade journals the average homeowner saved one filling of a 275-gallon oil tank or a proportionate amount of other fuel.

Kingston's 1953-54 heating season to April 1 was 11.6 per cent warmer than the normal, figured by degree-days, according to Harry Rigby, Jr., of the Kingston Coal Company. "Degree-days" is the term used by the heating industry to figure fuel consumption for heating purposes.

Warmer Than Last Year

This winter was one of a series of warmer winters, and the degree-day figure for the current heating season was .9 per cent warmer than last year.

In Boston, the 1953-54 heating season so far is 12.9 per cent warmer than normal and 4.1 per cent warmer than last year; New York city was 12.8 per cent warmer than normal, 1.6 per cent warmer than last year; Philadelphia, 11.5 per cent warmer than normal; Scranton, 9.3 per cent warmer; Syracuse, 6.7 per cent warmer and Toronto, 13.2 per cent warmer than normal.

All other things being equal, fuel consumption for heating purposes will be off in direct proportion to the percentage of increase in warmth, figured by degree-days.

While this proportion will hold true with many individual homeowners, the effect of the warmer winter on the local fuel dealers remains a question on which it was impossible to obtain an un-

Trowbridge Found Dead of Burns

Russell Trowbridge, 83, proprietor of Trowbridge Farms, a resort at Kyserike, was found dead there at about 11 a. m. today, the apparent victim of burns suffered as he was burning brush.

State police at Ellenville said that Mrs. Stanley Steen, an employe of the Trowbridge Hotel, had found him near the burned out brush pile. His clothing had apparently caught fire, they said.

Dr. Alfred M. Feldshuh, of Kerhonkson, pronounced him dead and Coroner Francis J. McCardle, of Kingston, was notified. The body was taken to the Humiston Funeral Home at Kerhonkson. Funeral arrangements are to be announced.

Tom Shultis Outguessed Groundhog, Warns You'd Better Button Up Your Tulips in May

For the fourth time in the last two years the Bearsville prophet has called the turn of the weather.

Tom Shultis said last winter would be mild—and it was. The warmest in a number of years, according to the U. S. Weather Bureau.

It's just getting to be a habit with the Bearsville sage, whose reputation is growing right smart in these parts. If he's got a formula, or some special sixth sense, he ain't talkin'.

But to get down to business. The sage has another prediction. He says we're going to have a "cool, late spring with frost in May."

Summer forecasts for the eastern part of the nation, says Shultis, will be "disagreeable and changeable with high winds." Most storms will be "light," however, and "rainfall below normal. Warmest weather will be in June and July. August and September cool, frost again in late August and early September. Crops will be damaged by winds and again by early frost."

Well, that's it, brother. Make your plans accordingly.

Last year Shultis predicted a "mild winter" with light storms, water supply and reservoirs below normal. "However," he concluded, "we may have a late spring as Easter will be late, the 18th of April."

He predicted that the winter of 1952-53 would be mild — and Ulster county had the warmest weather in 38 years!

Light Snow Fell

Summing up the past winter, in support of his judgment, Shultis points out that the heaviest snowfall at any one time was only five inches—this on two occasions. The heaviest rainfall at any one time amounted to two inches.

"The only winter weather was from January 9 to January 18. Only four times was the thermometer at zero or below. The average high and low degree temperature for four months was 30 degrees, which was higher than the winter of 1953."

According to Shultis, the national forecast on Ground Hog Day, February 2, was for six more weeks of winter. "The ground hog came out, looked around, saw his shadow and said, 'I don't believe what Shultis forecast for February and March. I am going back for six more weeks of winter.'" He went back, says Shultis, and "missed six weeks of the best part of the winter."

Shultis said the area had its warmest February in the last 70 years.

IBM Will Begin Local Work Monday at Bowlatorium Site

Announcement was made today by IBM that operations will begin on Monday in the temporary rented facilities at 23-37 Grand street, formerly the Kingston Bowlatorium, and that approximately 40 people will be employed initially at this location.

Those selected for work in the Kingston plant are residents of Kingston and vicinity, who have been employed at the IBM Poughkeepsie plant for some time. They will be engaged in work on a government contract of a restricted nature.

It is expected that the work force at this plant will grow to 175 by the end of the year. This group also will be made up largely of Kingston residents presently employed at the IBM Poughkeepsie plant.

Employment and procurement activity will continue to be handled at Poughkeepsie for the present.

I. P. Maurer, who will be in charge of the group, is a native of Port Ewen and has been employed at IBM six years.

The former Bowlatorium on Grand street was rented some time ago by IBM and since that time alterations have been going on to place the building in condition for the special work which will be carried on at the Kingston plant.

'Blue Rain' Spots Detroit And Elm Trees Are Blamed

Detroit, April 9 (AP) — Astonished Detroiters were talking today about their "blue rain."

For the time being at least this seemed of as much concern as the price of coffee or other such major problems.

The "blue rain" made its appearance here yesterday, splotching hundreds of homes on the northwest side. Davenport, Iowa, got some too.

Houses were flecked with tiny blue spots. Some of it was a purplish-blue. One handsome white house here was splattered.

Science came up with explanations—though first excitement ran high. One unofficial theory, for instance, was that it might have come from the hydrogen bomb tests in the Pacific. There was positively no expert support for that one.

Elm tree buds—that's what it was in Detroit apparently.

Dr. Joseph G. Molner, city health commissioner, advanced the explanation.

Dr. Molner said the buds had fallen to the ground, rested on the damp earth, and had then been blown forcefully against the houses by Wednesday night's big windstorm.

Chemicals in the house paint probably contributed to the ultimate coloring, he said.

Davenport's analysis was similar.

Scientists in that city reported microscopic examination showed the flecks were caused by a type of vegetable material. Probably pollen spores.

Senator Bridges Seeks Reappraisal in Light of Present World Situation

Washington, April 9 (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R-N. H.) said today that Congress ought to "reappraise the whole foreign aid picture in the light of the current world situation," particularly the Indochina crisis.

Two Vehicles Demolished Near Wurtsboro—Youth Hurt Critically

Nine persons were injured, one of them critically, in a head-on automobile collision on Route 17 about a mile and a half west of Wurtsboro on Thursday afternoon, state police reported.

The accident involved six New York city teenagers in one car and a family of three from Utica in the other, troopers said. Both vehicles were demolished.

Critically injured was Andrew Backenheimer, 17, of Flushing, Queens. At the Middletown Sanitarium this morning, Backenheimer's attending physician said the youth was still on the "critical list" but was "doing as well as we can expect." Reported in "fair" condition at the sanitarium are Richard Rolfe, 18, Edward Schuster, 17, and Gerald Delet, 18, all of Manhattan.

At Middletown Hospital

Taken to Horton Memorial Hospital in Middletown were Robert Gruver, 17, and Stuart Simke, 18, both also of Manhattan. Gruver's condition was reported as "poor" immediately after the accident, but hospital authorities today indicated he had shown some improvement during the night and listed him as "fair." Simke's condition also was "fair."

In fair condition at Monticello Hospital were Jeremiah J. Wonderstock, 34; his wife, Edith, 32, and son, James, 4, of Utica.

Troopers at the Wurtsboro station said the accident happened about 3:15 p. m. Full details had not been compiled because all the occupants of both cars were injured, the troopers said. No arrest has been made.

'Fingers' Quincy Man as One of Looters of Armored Truck in Danvers

Boston, April 9 (AP)—James J. O'Leary, 31, today was under the protective custody of the FBI after he dramatically pointed out George D. O'Brien, 44, of Quincy, as one of four men who looted an armored truck of $681,700 in Danvers Square March 25, 1952.

He pointed a finger at O'Brien in the latter's larceny trial in Federal Court yesterday and swore he was one of the men who rifled the money-carrying vehicle on a bright forenoon while its three guards sipped coffee in a nearby drugstore.

O'Leary, of 4705 15th avenue, Woodside, Queens, N. Y., a one-time Holy Cross College track star, said he told no one of what he allegedly saw until "a day or two later" when he contacted FBI Agent Edward McNamara of Boston, with whom he had attended College.

He said he kept the secret from everyone else, including Danvers police, his mother, father and sister, to spare his family "the anxiety."

Surprise Testimony

He said in his surprise testimony yesterday:

"I was returning to my office (in Danvers) from the post office. As I crossed the street I saw a black sedan parked parallel to the curb in back of the truck which was parked at an angle at the curb in front of the drug store.

"I saw a crowd gather and men passing bags from the armored truck to the black sedan.

"Then another car drove up and parked parallel with the other sedan, near the middle of the street.

"A man got out and joined the others as if making sure everything was going all right."

O'Leary's testimony was brought out under questioning, separately, by Asst. U. S. Atty. Edward D. Hassan and Defense Attorney Paul T. Smith.

Wore Big Hat

"He wore a big hat and a burberry kind of a coat, a tweed or check."

Hassan told O'Leary to "look around and see if you can point out the man."

"Yes, I can, that man there with his hand to his chin," O'Leary replied.

O'Brien stood up impassively and promptly when ordered to.

O'Leary half stood from the witness chair and said "yes, that's the man."

The witness said he stood watching the transfer for "five to seven minutes and left." He added that

Homeowners' Winter Fuel Use Is Lower

The average homeowner of Kingston and vicinity this winter saved more than 10 per cent in fuel consumption over the normal winter, local fuel dealers estimate.

The savings approximate those of homeowners across the country, where according to trade journals the average homeowner saved one filling of a 275-gallon oil tank or a proportionate amount of other fuel.

Kingston's 1953-54 heating season to April 1 was 11.6 per cent warmer than the normal, figured by degree-days, according to Harry Rigby, Jr., of the Kingston Coal Company. "Degree-days" is the term used by the heating industry to figure fuel consumption for heating purposes.

Warmer Than Last Year

This winter was one of a series of warmer winters, and the degree-day figure for the current heating season was .9 per cent warmer than last year.

In Boston, the 1953-54 heating season so far is 12.9 per cent warmer than normal and 4.1 per cent warmer than last year; New York city was 12.8 per cent warmer than normal, 1.6 per cent warmer than last year; Philadelphia, 11.5 per cent warmer than normal; Scranton, 9.3 per cent warmer; Syracuse, 6.7 per cent warmer and Toronto, 13.2 per cent warmer than normal.

All other things being equal, fuel consumption for heating purposes will be off in direct proportion to the percentage of increase in warmth, figured by degree-days.

While this proportion will hold true with many individual homeowners, the effect of the warmer winter on the local fuel dealers remains a question on which it was impossible to obtain an un-

Trowbridge Found Dead of Burns

Russell Trowbridge, 83, proprietor of Trowbridge Farms, a resort at Kyserike, was found dead there at about 11 a. m. today, the apparent victim of burns suffered as he was burning brush.

State police at Ellenville said that Mrs. Stanley Steen, an employe of the Trowbridge Hotel, had found him near the burned out brush pile. His clothing had apparently caught fire, they said.

Dr. Alfred M. Feldshuh, of Kerhonkson, pronounced him dead and Coroner Francis J. McCardle, of Kingston, was notified. The body was taken to the Humiston Funeral Home at Kerhonkson. Funeral arrangements are to be announced.

IBM Will Begin Local Work Monday at Bowlatorium Site

Announcement was made today by IBM that operations will begin on Monday in the temporary rented facilities at 23-37 Grand street, formerly the Kingston Bowlatorium, and that approximately 40 people will be employed initially at this location.

Those selected for work in the Kingston plant are residents of Kingston and vicinity, who have been employed at the IBM Poughkeepsie plant for some time. They will be engaged in work on a government contract of a restricted nature.

It is expected that the work force at this plant will grow to 175 by the end of the year. This group also will be made up largely of Kingston residents presently employed at the IBM Poughkeepsie plant.

Employment and procurement activity will continue to be handled at Poughkeepsie for the present.

I. P. Maurer, who will be in charge of the group, is a native of Port Ewen and has been employed at IBM six years.

The former Bowlatorium on Grand street was rented some time ago by IBM and since that time alterations have been going on to place the building in condition for the special work which will be carried on at the Kingston plant.

Tom Shultis Outguessed Groundhog, Warns You'd Better Button Up Your Tulips in May

For the fourth time in the last two years the Bearsville prophet has called the turn of the weather.

Tom Shultis said last winter would be mild—and it was. The warmest in a number of years, according to the U. S. Weather Bureau.

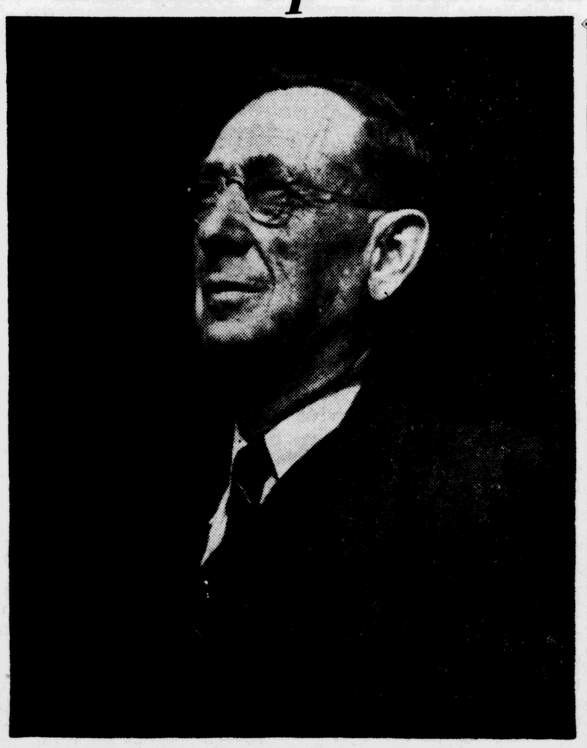
It's just getting to be a habit with the Bearsville sage, whose reputation is growing right smart in these parts. If he's got a formula, or some special sixth sense, he ain't talkin'.

But to get down to business. The sage has another prediction. He says we're going to have a "cool, late spring with frost in May."

Summer forecasts for the eastern part of the nation, says Shultis, will be "disagreeable and changeable with high winds." Most storms will be "light," however, and "rainfall below normal. Warmest weather will be in June and July. August and September cool, frost again in late August and early September. Crops will be damaged by winds and again by early frost."

Well, that's it, brother. Make your plans accordingly.

Last year Shultis predicted a "mild winter" with light storms,



Bearsville prophet scans skies, and says we'll have weather. (Freeman photo)

water supply and reservoirs below normal. "However," he concluded, "we may have a late spring as Easter will be late, the 18th of April."

He predicted that the winter of 1952-53 would be mild — and Ulster county had the warmest weather in 38 years!

Light Snow Fell

Summing up the past winter, in support of his judgment, Shultis points out that the heaviest snowfall at any one time was only five inches—this on two occasions. The heaviest rainfall at any one time amounted to two inches.

"The only winter weather was from January 9 to January 18. Only four times was the thermometer at zero or below. The average high and low degree temperature for four months was 30 degrees, which was higher than the winter of 1953."

According to Shultis, the national forecast on Ground Hog Day, February 2, was for six more weeks of winter. "The ground hog came out, looked around, saw his shadow and said, 'I don't believe what Shultis forecast for February and March. I am going back for six more weeks of winter.'" He went back, says Shultis, and "missed six weeks of the best part of the winter."

Shultis said the area had its warmest February in the last 70 years.

'Blue Rain' Spots Detroit And Elm Trees Are Blamed

Detroit, April 9 (AP) — Astonished Detroiters were talking today about their "blue rain."

For the time being at least this seemed of as much concern as the price of coffee or other such major problems.

The "blue rain" made its appearance here yesterday, splotching hundreds of homes on the northwest side. Davenport, Iowa, got some too.

Houses were flecked with tiny blue spots. Some of it was a purplish-blue. One handsome white house here was splattered.

Science came up with explanations—though first excitement ran high. One unofficial theory, for instance, was that it might have come from the hydrogen bomb tests in the Pacific. There was positively no expert support for that one.

Elm tree buds—that's what it was in Detroit apparently.

Dr. Joseph G. Molner, city health commissioner, advanced the explanation.

Dr. Molner said the buds had fallen to the ground, rested on the damp earth, and had then been blown forcefully against the houses by Wednesday night's big windstorm.

Chemicals in the house paint probably contributed to the ultimate coloring, he said.

Davenport's analysis was similar.

Scientists in that city reported microscopic examination showed the flecks were caused by a type of vegetable material. Probably pollen spores.

Craft, Igor Stravinsky Barred From Opera

Robert Craft of Kingston and Hollywood, with world-famed composer Igor Stravinsky and another friend, was refused admittance to the Rome Opera House Wednesday night "because their suits weren't of the dress variety," according to an AP dispatch.

They were attired in dark, but not formal, suits, and were planning to catch a performance of a new German opera, Boulevard Solitude, by Henze. The three are attending the current International Conference of Composers, Performers and Music Critics, of which Stravinsky is chairman of the advisory board. The opera was being given in connection with this conference.

Stravinsky was unrecognized, but when the doorman was told his identity, was willing to let him in alone. Stravinsky insisted he would not enter unless the others were also admitted. The manager was called, but was "too busy to bother with the three." After protestations, they left.

But they missed only more confusion on the inside. For the opera was greeted with an "unceasing barrage of hoots, whistles, coughs and remarks from the first scene on," according to the New York Times dispatch this morning. The Times added, "The Italian press was unanimous in denouncing it this morning, and even went so far as to approve of the audience's behavior." Sistema Della Dolcezza, by Tosatti, which formed the other half of the evening's program, met the same fate, although "less clamorously," the Times reports.

Craft, who left Kingston only a week ago for Italy, will conduct three concerts in Rome for the Italian Broadcasting Company, it was learned from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Craft of 284 Washington avenue. He will also appear with the symphony orchestras in Baden-Baden and Frankfurt, Germany.

He is expected back in this country in May when he will be the principal conductor at the festival at Ojai, Cal.

Man Apprehended For Catskill Police

A man sought for more than a year by Catskill police was apprehended at Plattekill Thursday afternoon by state police and turned over to Catskill authorities to face a first degree grand larceny charge.

John Zitz, 34, who gave his address as Kingston, was arraigned in Catskill police court and the case was adjourned until Monday. Police described Zitz as a "wanderer" and said his Kingston address consisted of a rented room in a house on Route 32 south of the railroad crossing.

Highland troopers, who were alerted by teletype that Zitz was believed to be in their territory, reported that Zitz attempted to elude them when he was spotted about 3:30 p. m. Thursday at Plattekill. Troopers Michael Lisman, Warren Beebe and Patrick Crowley apprehended him after persuading him to come from his hiding place under an automobile in a junk yard, they reported.

Catskill police said they held a warrant for Zitz' arrest since a year ago last fall, when he allegedly agreed to purchase an automobile from Jerry's Chevrolet, Inc., but drove off in it before the transaction was completed.

Mower Appears As Assault Victim

Robert Mower, 26, of Route 1, Box 400, Saugerties, who was arrested March 25 on a third degree assault charge, appeared today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino as scheduled, but this time he came also as the victim of an alleged assault.

Shirley Mower, 24, his wife, who last time was the complainant, appeared today as a defendant on a second degree assault charge for allegedly having hit her husband with a beer glass in a tavern on Foxhall avenue.

Robert's case was adjourned to April 22 for a jury trial and Shirley's case was put over until April 13 for arraignment. Both are under bail.

The husband was picked up on a warrant executed by Officers Francis Buchanan and Edward Edwards on March 25, and Shirley was arrested at police headquarters this morning by Lt. James P. Martin.

Treated at Hospital

The police report noted that Robert was treated at Kingston Hospital for cuts over the right eye and on the right cheek which required "33 stitches to close."

Police was notified through a call from Kingston Hospital at 1:45 a. m., that a man was being treated in the emergency room and Officers Harold Bowers and Francis Buchanan investigated. They reported that Mower had allegedly been assaulted by his wife.

Mower, who gave a Saugerties address today, said he lived at 52 Elmendorf street, when he was arrested in March. His wife gave the latter address today.

Information on the arrest said Mower and his wife were drinking beer and talking at the tavern and they "got in an argument over another couple." The "other fellow's wife," Mower said, had made a remark about Mower's wife, and Mower, in effect, added to it, the report said.

"My wife then threw a glass at me and cut my face," Mower was quoted as saying.

Craig Suffers Head Injury in Accident

Stanley J. Craig, 20, of 120 Esopus avenue received possible head injuries about 6:45 a. m. today when his automobile blew a front tire and crashed into a guard rail on the Onteora Trail at Stony Hollow, the sheriff's office reported.

Craig was taken by Deputy Sheriff Albert E. Eisele to Kingston Hospital, where he was examined and was scheduled to be X-rayed. At the hospital later this morning authorities stated he was not listed as an in-patient.

Two guard rail posts were damaged and the entire front end and undercarriage of the automobile were damaged, Deputy Eisele reported. Eisele said Craig told him the left front tire blew out, causing him to lose control of the automobile, which swerved to the left, struck the guard posts and then swerved back and came to rest in the center of the four-lane highway.

Man, 80, Dies

Jeffersonville, April 9 (AP)—An 80-year-old man dropped dead in a funeral parlor here last night while paying his last respects to a lifelong friend who died earlier. The elderly man, John C. Beck, had been a merchant here many years. His death was attributed to a heart attack. The longtime friend who died earlier was William T. Knell.

Both Were Losers

Springfield, Colo., April 9 (AP)—A taxpayer and the Baca county assessor's office were both losers in an exchange of letters over real estate taxes. The man wanted to know why his taxes were higher in 1953 than in the preceding year. The assessor promptly fired off a reply. Both letters required three-cent stamps. The man's taxes had increased by two cents.

No Chance to Survive

Lawrence, Mass., April 9 (AP)—Three years ago doctors said Louis A. Trainor, Jr., 23, had no chance to survive spinal meningitis. He was in a coma eight days. Several doctors said he might live but probably would be a cripple for life. Last night, Trainor was commissed an ensign in the U. S. Navy Reserve after passing a rigid physical examination.

About the Folks

Mrs. Lena Ostrander has returned to this city after being called out of town due to the death of her brother, George Prosser of Tannersville.

In 1953, the average value on U. S. bituminous coal as it came from the mines was $5 a ton.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 9 (AP)—The stock market advanced today, but it suffered from spotty profit-taking.

The result was a list that had a ragged appearance with many leading groups showing some minus signs.

Both gains and losses spread out over a range of around a point. Gainers had the upper hand by a slim margin.

Business proceeded at a pace only slightly under yesterday's 2,300,000 shares.

The market started higher and maintained moderate progress in early trading. Profit-taking appeared around lunchtime.

Stocks associated with atomic development or the rare metals were subdued.

Vanadium, which has been strong for two days, was up only a small fraction. That also was the case with climax molybdenum.

U. S. Steel, yesterday's most active issue, opened on a block of 10,000 shares up ½ at 44 and held fairly well to its gains.

Jury Completed For Broccoli Case

A jury was completed Thursday for the Anthony Broccoli first degree rape case tried in Ulster County Court, but not before the entire panel of 40 men and women had been examined.

Broccoli, who gave his address as Box 399, Route 3, Saugerties, when arrested faces accusations made by Mary Jane Damis of Glasco, who took the stand after Dr. B. W. Gifford testified as to an examination he made of complainant.

In order to secure a jury of 12 and an alternate juror the entire panel of 40 jurors was exhausted. The alternate being the last remaining man on the panel. As composed the jury stands nine women and three men with the alternate also being a man.

Becomes Hysterical

During the afternoon the complainant took the stand and during her testimony it became necessary to recess in order that she might compose herself. An early adjournment was taken when she became confused and appeared on the verge of a breakdown.

Frank Compochiaro appeared for the defendant, a resident of Glasco, who resides not far from the complainant. The complainant testified to having gone to her home and of the defendant accompanying her and told of what happened after they entered the house during the absence of her father. Her testimony was resumed today.

Craft, Igor Stravinsky Barred From Opera

Robert Craft of Kingston and Hollywood, with world-famed composer Igor Stravinsky and another friend, was refused admittance to the Rome Opera House Wednesday night "because their suits weren't of the dress variety," according to an AP dispatch.

They were attired in dark, but not formal, suits, and were planning to catch a performance of a new German opera, Boulevard Solitude, by Henze. The three are attending the current International Conference of Composers, Performers and Music Critics, of which Stravinsky is chairman of the advisory board. The opera was being given in connection with this conference.

Stravinsky was unrecognized, but when the doorman was told his identity, was willing to let him in alone. Stravinsky insisted he would not enter unless the others were also admitted. The manager was called, but was "too busy to bother with the three." After protestations, they left.

But they missed only more confusion on the inside. For the opera was greeted with an "unceasing barrage of hoots, whistles, coughs and remarks from the first scene on," according to the New York Times dispatch this morning. The Times added, "The Italian press was unanimous in denouncing it this morning, and even went so far as to approve of the audience's behavior." Sistema Della Dolcezza, by Tosatti, which formed the other half of the evening's program, met the same fate, although "less clamorously," the Times reports.

Craft, who left Kingston only a week ago for Italy, will conduct three concerts in Rome for the Italian Broadcasting Company, it was learned from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Craft of 284 Washington avenue. He will also appear with the symphony orchestras in Baden-Baden and Frankfurt, Germany.

He is expected back in this country in May when he will be the principal conductor at the festival at Ojai, Cal.

Man Apprehended For Catskill Police

A man sought for more than a year by Catskill police was apprehended at Plattekill Thursday afternoon by state police and turned over to Catskill authorities to face a first degree grand larceny charge.

John Zitz, 34, who gave his address as Kingston, was arraigned in Catskill police court and the case was adjourned until Monday. Police described Zitz as a "wanderer" and said his Kingston address consisted of a rented room in a house on Route 32 south of the railroad crossing.

Highland troopers, who were alerted by teletype that Zitz was believed to be in their territory, reported that Zitz attempted to elude them when he was spotted about 3:30 p. m. Thursday at Plattekill. Troopers Michael Lisman, Warren Beebe and Patrick Crowley apprehended him after persuading him to come from his hiding place under an automobile in a junk yard, they reported.

Catskill police said they held a warrant for Zitz' arrest since a year ago last fall, when he allegedly agreed to purchase an automobile from Jerry's Chevrolet, Inc., but drove off in it before the transaction was completed.

Mower Appears As Assault Victim

Robert Mower, 26, of Route 1, Box 400, Saugerties, who was arrested March 25 on a third degree assault charge, appeared today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino as scheduled, but this time he came also as the victim of an alleged assault.

Shirley Mower, 24, his wife, who last time was the complainant, appeared today as a defendant on a second degree assault charge for allegedly having hit her husband with a beer glass in a tavern on Foxhall avenue.

Robert's case was adjourned to April 22 for a jury trial and Shirley's case was put over until April 13 for arraignment. Both are under bail.

The husband was picked up on a warrant executed by Officers Francis Buchanan and Edward Edwards on March 25, and Shirley was arrested at police headquarters this morning by Lt. James P. Martin.

Treated at Hospital

The police report noted that Robert was treated at Kingston Hospital for cuts over the right eye and on the right cheek which required "33 stitches to close."

Police was notified through a call from Kingston Hospital at 1:45 a. m., that a man was being treated in the emergency room and Officers Harold Bowers and Francis Buchanan investigated. They reported that Mower had allegedly been assaulted by his wife.

Mower, who gave a Saugerties address today, said he lived at 52 Elmendorf street, when he was arrested in March. His wife gave the latter address today.

Information on the arrest said Mower and his wife were drinking beer and talking at the tavern and they "got in an argument over another couple." The "other fellow's wife," Mower said, had made a remark about Mower's wife, and Mower, in effect, added to it, the report said.

"My wife then threw a glass at me and cut my face," Mower was quoted as saying.

Craig Suffers Head Injury in Accident

Stanley J. Craig, 20, of 120 Esopus avenue received possible head injuries about 6:45 a. m. today when his automobile blew a front tire and crashed into a guard rail on the Onteora Trail at Stony Hollow, the sheriff's office reported.

Craig was taken by Deputy Sheriff Albert E. Eisele to Kingston Hospital, where he was examined and was scheduled to be X-rayed. At the hospital later this morning authorities stated he was not listed as an in-patient.

Two guard rail posts were damaged and the entire front end and undercarriage of the automobile were damaged, Deputy Eisele reported. Eisele said Craig told him the left front tire blew out, causing him to lose control of the automobile, which swerved to the left, struck the guard posts and then swerved back and came to rest in the center of the four-lane highway.

Springfield, Colo., April 9 (AP)—A taxpayer and the Baca county assessor's office were both losers in an exchange of letters over real estate taxes. The man wanted to know why his taxes were higher in 1953 than in the preceding year. The assessor promptly fired off a reply. Both letters required three-cent stamps. About the Folks

Mrs. Lena Ostrander has returned to this city after being called out of town due to the death of her brother, George Prosser of Tannersville.

In 1953, the average value on U. S. bituminous coal as it came from the mines was $5 a ton.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 9 (AP)—The stock market advanced today, but it suffered from spotty profit-taking.

The result was a list that had a ragged appearance with many leading groups showing some minus signs.

Both gains and losses spread out over a range of around a point. Gainers had the upper hand by a slim margin.

Business proceeded at a pace only slightly under yesterday's 2,300,000 shares.

The market started higher and maintained moderate progress in early trading. Profit-taking appeared around lunchtime.

Stocks associated with atomic development or the rare metals were subdued.

Vanadium, which has been strong for two days, was up only a small fraction. That also was the case with climax molybdenum.

U. S. Steel, yesterday's most active issue, opened on a block of 10,000 shares up ½ at 44 and held fairly well to its gains.

Jury Completed For Broccoli Case

A jury was completed Thursday for the Anthony Broccoli first degree rape case tried in Ulster County Court, but not before the entire panel of 40 men and women had been examined.

Broccoli, who gave his address as Box 399, Route 3, Saugerties, when arrested faces accusations made by Mary Jane Damis of Glasco, who took the stand after Dr. B. W. Gifford testified as to an examination he made of complainant.

In order to secure a jury of 12 and an alternate juror the entire panel of 40 jurors was exhausted. The alternate being the last remaining man on the panel. As composed the jury stands nine women and three men with the alternate also being a man.

Becomes Hysterical

During the afternoon the complainant took the stand and during her testimony it became necessary to recess in order that she might compose herself. An early adjournment was taken when she became confused and appeared on the verge of a breakdown.

Frank Compochiaro appeared for the defendant, a resident of Glasco, who resides not far from the complainant. The complainant testified to having gone to her home and of the defendant accompanying her and told of what happened after they entered the house during the absence of her father. Her testimony was resumed today.

719 Admissions Made in '53 at Ulster County Jail

There was a total of 719 admissions to the Ulster County Jail during the 1953 calendar year, according to Sheriff Cluett Schantz' annual jail report.

The total includes the admission of 649 men and 70 women.

The actual number of individuals who spent time in jail last year, however, would be considerably fewer than the total admissions, since an individual sentenced three times during the year to short terms on, for instance, public intoxication charges, would be counted as three admissions. Also an individual arrested and held for trial is counted as one admission when ordered held and again when sentenced after conviction.

The total number of admissions includes 324 men and 20 women sentenced after conviction for misdemeanors; 250 men and 47 women held for grand jury action, examination or trial; one man and two women held as witnesses and 74 men and one woman held for other causes, including 20 federal cases and 17 servicemen absent without leave.

The average daily number of inmates in the jail during 1953 was 41 men and seven women. The lowest number incarcerated at any one time during the year was 17.

Public intoxication was the greatest single cause for sentence to the county jail, accounting for 156 jail terms for men and nine for women.

The greatest number of persons admitted to jail for all causes gave the occupation of a laborer. This classification included 312 men and four women.

Other admissions, by occupational group, included 49 men and 41 women in domestic and personal service; 66 men listed as skilled operatives in building trades; 45 men in transportation as chauffeurs and drivers; 25 members of the armed forces, and 24 auto mechanics.

More single men were admitted than married men, but married women admitted outnumbered the single women. Of the men admitted, 337 were single, 241 married, 34 widowed and 37 divorced or separated. Of the women admitted, 30 were married, 17 single, 14 widowed and nine divorced or separated.

'Dangerous Age'

The "most dangerous age" for men seemed to be 45, with a total of 16 men of that age sentenced after conviction. For women, the age of greatest number of sentences after conviction was 44, with a total of three admissions. The oldest prisoner was an 80-year-old man.

Total cost for food for prisoners during the year was $10,189.51. The average cost per week for food for one prisoner was $6.98.

During the year a new visitors' room was completed in the jail at a cost of $1,528.24.

Road Death Rate In State Increases

Addressing a greater New York Safety Council meeting yesterday, Macduff said the 2,271 fatalities in 1953 compared with 2,111 in 1952. He said 166,469 persons suffered injuries in New York state automobile accidents last year compared with 160,994 in 1952.

Disaster, That's What

Albany, April 9 (AP) — Chemists and the weatherman couldn't get together, but the girls agreed something was amiss. At least eight women in a seventh-floor office of the New York Telephone Co. yesterday checked their nylon stockings and oops—disaster: The sheer material was running and "pulling apart." Chemists queried on the strange turn of the hose were inclined to blame it on a reaction to fumes and industrial vapors wafting about in 30-to-40-mile-an-hour winds. But the weatherman said the wind velocity made it unlikely that fumes would linger long.

Graf, president; Jerry A. Smith, vice-president; Albert J. Cawein, recording secretary; Robert Herb, corresponding secretary; Arthur L. Smith, sergeant-at-arms, and Harry L. Moose, captain of West Camp zone.

President Graf thanked the Snyder company for their gracious invitation and expressed the hope that the new company would gain knowledge in its association with the established companies of the village and town.

After the business meeting of the Snyder Company various members of the unit demonstrated the equipment of the company to members of the Malden-West Camp group. Chief Driver Rudolph Doscher, Vernon Benjamin, first assistant chief, and William Rightmeyer, former chief, explained the functions of the Snyder truck and equipment. The Snyder truck is one of the most modern in the Saugerties area.

Doscher also told members of the new group that they would be invited to a hose and equipment test in the near future. During and after the demonstration refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

Various events were planned for the fund raising campaign. A shoot is scheduled for July 4 at the Glasco grounds.

The program of the evening also included the showing of movies supplied through the courtesy of the Art Craft Shop in Kingston. Following the program refreshments were served.

Congregation Will Meet April 29th

Saugerties, April 6—The first council meeting upon the return of the Rev. Henry M. Schumann from Europe was held on Sunday evening in the parish hall.

The group agreed on Thursday, April 29 as the date for the congregational meeting. The program will include election of new council members and a resume by the Rev. Mr. Schumann concerning his stay in Europe while working with the resettlement service of the Lutheran World Federation.

The council formerly approved sponsorship of Boy Scout Troop 33 and accepted the choice of troop committeemen presented by Albert J. Cawein, neighborhood commissioner. The committeemen accepted were Charles J. Graf, institutional representative, Hirschell Patterson, John Patterson, Jerry A. Smith, Charles Brown and the Rev. Mr. Schumann. The troop will be registered on April 30.

The Rev. Mr. Schumann commended the council and various members of the congregation for their capable acceptance of responsibilities in conducting the business of the church during his absence.

The meeting brought out that the Easter Dawn service would again be held this year. Infant baptism was scheduled for Children's Day in June.

Following the meeting a social hour was held in the parsonage for members of the council and their wives.

Mino is general chairman for the affair and ticket reservations may be made by contacting him or the Veterans of Foreign Wars Home, Delaware avenue.

The committee selected Mr. Flanagan as the outstanding citizen of the year to receive the award because of his civic interest in veterans through assistance in G. I. loan activities by which veterans are able to finance homes for themselves and family.

Road Death Rate In State Increases

New York, April 9 (AP) — State Motor Vehicle Commissioner James R. Macduff says New York state's highway death rate rose last year for the first time in 10 years.

Addressing a greater New York Safety Council meeting yesterday, Macduff said the 2,271 fatalities in 1953 compared with 2,111 in 1952. He said 166,469 persons suffered injuries in New York state automobile accidents last year compared with 160,994 in 1952.

Property damage also increased last year to 86 million dollars, he said, compared with 83 millions in 1952.

Disaster, That's What

Albany, April 9 (AP) — Chemists and the weatherman couldn't get together, but the girls agreed something was amiss. At least eight women in a seventh-floor office of the New York Telephone Co. yesterday checked their nylon stockings and oops—disaster: The sheer material was running and "pulling apart." Chemists queried on the strange turn of the hose were inclined to blame it on a reaction to fumes and industrial vapors wafting about in 30-to-40-mile-an-hour winds. But the weatherman said the wind velocity made it unlikely that fumes would linger long.

LIONS SIGHT SAVING DRIVE

The Kingston Lions Club currently is conducting its sale of Blind Seals, the funds from which enable the Sight Conservation and Blind Committee of the local service club to carry on its work in behalf of the blind. The seals now are being sent to many residents of Kingston and Ulster County.

Here is a financial campaign that deserves our generous support.

The local club has received 392 eye pledges and now will establish an Eye Bank Substation in Kingston. The eyes will be placed in an iced container and may be transported anywhere in the United States. Eye surgeons estimate that at least 10,000 Americans, one out of every 25 of the American blind, probably can be made to see again through the graft-cornea operation.

BOOST TO THE ECONOMY

President Eisenhower is hopeful that the excise tax cuts which recently became effective may have a stimulating effect on our economy. The President had opposed some of the cuts on the ground that a balanced budget would be more difficult to achieve if revenue were cut. He signed the bill, however, with the hope that it will have the good effect its proponents predict for it.

At the moment there is some concern over the problem of unemployment. Full employment is related to consumer demand and if ways can be found to get people to buy more consumer goods the rate of unemployment will decline. One way to achieve this is by putting more purchasing power in the hands of consumers by lowering taxes.

The President's original objection to the excise tax cuts had some validity, however. Unemployment on any large scale means a decrease in government revenue through income tax. Government income has already been reduced by the elimination of some taxes and the reduction of others. Spending has been curtailed to some extent but if the loss of revenue exceeds the amount of money saved then the national debt will increase.

All Americans hope that the excise tax cuts will act as a spur to our economy. There is also a chance that the loss of revenue will be made up in some other way so that before too long a balanced budget can be achieved. Sound financial practices demand that we do our best to keep our public debt from growing much larger.

LIVE LONG AND LIKE IT

The city of 1,000,000 persons, all of whom needed attention, would be a major problem for any nation. That is New York City's plight. The 1,000,000 are those of its inhabitants who are over 60. Not that a man or woman becomes a public care on attaining this not so very advanced age, but that new problems arise. Elderly folk, if retired, often have nothing much to do with their time. Their children are married and perhaps live in other cities, in any case have interests of their own which prevent them from giving full attention to their parents.

Boredom and a feeling of uselessness largely account for the fact, stated by Henry L. McCarthy, the city's Commissioner of Welfare, that 60 per cent of all those admitted to mental hospitals are persons over 60.

A first attack on this problem is the opening of a Day Center for the old, where they can meet one another, create art objects and otherwise engage in hobbies. Many such are needed.

Some libraries have established "Live Long and Like It" clubs, which offer lectures, film showings, musicales and other forms of entertainment for those over 60. The audiences unanimously say that these meetings are the bright spot in their lives. Could not this practice be copied more widely?

A Newport, Rhode Island, councilman recently spent his seventeenth year in office without delivering a public speech. The man who discovered this gem of a public servant should be able to make a good living locating needles lost in haystacks.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Lady Astor, whose wit is so attractive, has made the point that Left-Wing Conservatism saved the Tory party in Great Britain; that the heavy-handed Tories could only have saved the Socialists. She apparently advises the Republicans to accept a mild dose of New Dealism to avoid a heavy dose of the A.D.A.

That might have been the program of the Eisenhower Administration had the Republican Party not permitted itself to be splintered and fractionated by diversions which are neither important to the party nor the country. For that reason, those who used to regard themselves as Taft Republicans—that is, those who could accept social reforms but not Socialism—wonder what has become of their party and whether it has any program at all. Calling Adlai Stevenson an egg-head, which is a euphemism for an educated dope, is not a program.

A case of fractionization appeared in the Women's National Republican Club in New York, which is a center for what might be called Republican intellectualism and has a committee to study the problems of Communism, which they have been doing in a manner that might be called interesting but unproductive.

So this committee invited William F. Buckley, Jr., to speak before it on April 26 and he accepted the invitation. Meanwhile, his book, "McCarthy and His Enemies," appeared, whereupon the board of directors cancelled the Buckley engagement. For some reason, they were not too anxious to tell him about it, but it leaked out and caused a quarrel that may seem of no significance compared to the hydrogen bomb, but which may nevertheless seriously affect the vote in New York in the 1954 campaign.

For, while what Lady Astor calls Left-Wing Republicans may have many thoughts on great subjects, the mechanics of party operations are the routine Republicans who waited for 20 years for the Democrats to be defeated and who were steadfast and loyal during those 20 years, doing the chores of party work in what appeared to be a political desert.

They are still in the desert with no oasis in sight. One of their number is Chairman of the Republican National Committee, but he has not been able to bring much bacon to his state in the form of jobs and honors to those who were steadfast and loyal in the bleak days of Roosevelt and Truman. The rejection of Buckley as a speaker before a Republican club is symbolic to the true and tried that their kind are not wanted.

What is being said among these ladies is repeated in every clubhouse in the State of New York. While it may appear to some that Governor Dewey's rough treatment to his principal supporters, because their associations with race-track ownership became public, is the cause for dissension, actually working-politicians of both parties know about such things and expect the top boss to look fierce when the whitewash becomes impossible.

What is producing a hand-sitting Republican Party in New York is that the party workers see their enemies continued in office; that they see Republicans who worked with Roosevelt and Truman continued in excellent jobs; that honors go to men who have never been known to be Republicans, even if they secretly belonged to the faith; that the party has lost its general conservatism and therefore makes fools out of those who for 20 years stood by it, preaching a doctrine which, while adopted by the 1952 Convention, has been officially forgotten.

So, it is to be expected that in 1954, the political mechanics will be on strike—not openly, of course. Politicians have a way of sitting on their hands and dragging their feet. The only act that might mobilize the Republicans in New York would be for the Democrats to nominate Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., for Governor.

In New Jersey, the same atmosphere prevails. The nomination of Clifford P. Case for United States Senator was directed from Washington. The old-line Republicans do not want Mr. Case, but they were too split among themselves to do anything about it. They cannot, in conscience, vote against Case, but many will not vote for him, which is the same thing.

The atmospheres in these states need to be reported because the Republican margin in Congress is so narrow that failure to hold what they now have can only strengthen the Democrats.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

HEART DISEASE IN CHILDREN

"We can do more today to help or heal children with heart disease than was thought possible just twenty years ago and studies under way hold even more hope for the future. Although the outlook in general is hopeful, heart disease in children and in adults remains a major health problem. It is estimated that about one in every hundred children of school age has rheumatic fever, rheumatic heart disease or congenital (born with it) heart disease."

I am quoting from a pamphlet published by the American Heart Association, 44 East 23rd street, New York 10, N. Y.

Most heart disease in childhood is the result of rheumatic fever which usually begins between the ages of five and 15 but can occur at any age. The main point for all of us to remember is that rheumatic fever is a more formidable disease than when the individual is born with heart disease, as nature apparently accustoms herself to this congenital type of heart disease and the body gets so used to it that the symptoms are less alarming.

The reason that the physician gives a guarded diagnosis in rheumatic fever is because it may occur several times in a lifetime, usually following either a simple or a severe sore throat or a short time after what is now called a streptococcus infection—a "strep" throat.

"Rheumatic fever is an insidious infection, often difficult to recognize because it may closely resemble or mimic a variety of other diseases. Rheumatic fever is difficult to control because it often appears in so mild a form that the patient does not look or feel particularly ill. It is difficult to know when an attack of rheumatic fever has ended because it may lie dormant for a time, then suddenly flare up in a more acute or serious form. Thus even when no symptoms or signs are seen, the infection may actualy be 'smoldering'."

The active infection may last for months and sometimes years. Even after an attack of rheumatic fever is apparently cured, it may return after a mild attack of sore throat or tonsillitis.

The unfortunate point about these attacks is that each time it occurs it may cause damage to the heart. This is the reason that the physician watches an attack of rheumatic fever carefully as it is now agreed that the child's heart is affected during an acute attack. After the first attack of rheumatic fever, two out of three patients are left with a damaged heart. It is these repeated attacks that make this disease so dangerous.

However, it is just because rheumatic fever is so dangerous that it gets more care and attention than formerly. "When rheumatic fever does leave the heart permanently injured, the injury is usually the result of either or both valves on the left side of the heart being damaged and leaving a scar roughened and sometimes deformed."

How can an attack of rheumatic fever be prevented or rendered less dangerous? Every attack of sore throat should be treated with penicillin or the sulfa drugs; this is the key to prevention.

"Looks Like We Get a New Lease on Life"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington — (NEA) — GOP leaders argue that in spite of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's differences with the Eisenhower administration, he has a good record in support of the Presidents' program. This is the senator's 1953 voting record on 10 key issues tabulated by League of Women Voters:

McCarthy voted "Yea" on these:

Reduce foreign aid, July 1; restrict use of aid funds, July 29; admit additional immigrants, July 29; restrict stand-by controls, May 19; federal jurisdiction over tidelands, July 30; Communist China should not be admitted to the UN, June 3 (McCarthy absent, but would have voted Yea if present).

McCarthy voted "nay" on these issues:

Increase soil conservation, June 15; increase hospital building funds, July 7; increase Air Force funds $400 million, July 23; keep legal protection for women, July 16 (McCarthy absent but would have voted "Nay" if present).

One of the principal reasons why some of the key Eisenhower administration officials quit after little more than a year's service is that they can't take the punishment which a top government job requires. Many business executives have had the idea that being a Washington bureaucrat is the easiest work in the world. Once here, they have discovered that they had to work harder at more complex problems than they ever did in private business.

Clarence M. Randall, board chairman of Inland Steel, gave a demonstration of this while briefing reporters on the President's new foreign economic policy. He was asked about the number of bills that would be sent to Congress to put the President's plan into effect. Giving an unsatisfactory answer, Mr. Randall was pounced on to clear up the situation.

"I'm sorry," Mr. Randall apologized. "I've been working on this seven days a week for two months and I'm out on my feet. I don't know how many bills it will take."

You never can tell what will come out of a good free-for-all press conference. Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield set up a big conference the other day to unveil his new "pay-as-you-go" plan for operation of the Post Office Department. This plan has been in the making for 14 months. With charts and expert assistants, Mr. Summerfield spent over an hour explaining what it was all about. Even Robert Montgomery, White House radio and TV coach, was there to help out.

Just as the conference was about to break up, a reporter dropped an innocent question about whether Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy had ever settled up for misuse of his congressional frank, or free-mailing privilege on government business.

It took Mr. Summerfield only a minute to explain that Senator McCarthy had recently mailed in his check for $200 to pay up on what he owed. But that story got most of the front page attention, and the 350-page Post Office Department reorganization plan got buried inside the paper.

Government officials have learned the hard way that they should never make plans to do anything else when their appropriation bills are before Congress. But Nelson Rockefeller, Undersecretary of Health, Education and Welfare, got caught off base on this one the other day.

Some time previously, Mr. Rockefeller had agreed to be principal speaker at a National luncheon. He prepared a long and thorough address on the administration health program.

Just as he was beginning to speak, Mr. Rockefeller got an emergency call from his office. The House Appropriations Committee was about to begin hearings on his department's money bill.

Discarding his prepared text, Mr. Rockefeller made a few brief remarks about the health program, apologized and beat it for Capitol Hill so as not to keep his congressional masters waiting.

It is now illegal for anyone in Czechoslovakia to buy or own duplicating paper. The National Committee for Free Europe, in reporting this news from behind the Iron Curtain, attributes this situation to Communist fear. The Reds, the committee says, fear that the people will start printing underground, anti - Communist newspapers.

Best First Quarter in 63 Years Noted in Building Industry in U. S.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 9 — There's more good news from the construction industry in America. The month of March is not only very much ahead of February in contract awards, but the combined figures for January, February and March constitute the best first quarter in 63 years.

This means that not only has 1953 been topped, but also the previous record year, which was 1951.

The importance of this information to the business world is that contract awards for construction filed in March at the various city and state and federal offices means a turnover of money by midsummer. It is said that a contract awarded in March means dollars in the hands of consumers by June.

The figures come from F. W. Dodge Corporation, which has a large statistical organization for gathering data about construction. George Cline Smith, economist for the Dodge organization, says:

"Preliminary tabulations of the Dodge reports of construction contract awards in the 37 eastern states indicate that March awards were far and away the highest ever reported for any March.

"In addition to setting an all-time high for the month, the first quarter of 1954 set a new record for any first quarter in Dodge's 63-year history, since January and February also were at record levels for those months.

"These high March awards are not a fluke but are a continuation of a steady growth in construction activity. The 1953 awards were the highest annual total ever reported by Dodge reports. Seven out of the last twelve months have been at the highest level ever reported for those months.

"These records are not produced by a few large contracts or by any one special branch of construction. They represent high levels of activity in both residential and non-residential fields. It is hard to conceive of a prolonged severe decline in business activity when both individuals and businesses are expressing sufficient confidence in the future to contract for a record volume of construction."

A steady flow of building materials seems assured as well as high employment in the construction segment of the national economy.

When the detailed figures become available in a few days it will be seen that all the percentages are strongly up and the comparisons are on the bright side in every instance.

Officials here who have heard in advance about the figures are naturally pleased with the way the construction industry is going ahead to break all previous records. When the January data came out there was a feeling that perhaps the first month of the year was exceptional, but when February and March both showed a substantial increase over 1953 figures, it was apparent that the nation was experiencing a construction boom which, despite the reduction in governmental spending, was surpassing all records.

This, of course, is a dramatic illustration of what can happen when private spending is given a chance to operate without government restrictions. Not only is credit available, but there are no controls over materials to force artificial situations that bring higher prices. The law of supply and demand is operating on all fronts.

Just why is there the upturn in all classes of construction? One reason presumably is that whenever a war situation brings controls, there is underconsumption. Commercial buildings, for instance, which would have been built in 1950, 1951 and 1952 during the Korean war era, are only now being erected. While commercial building in itself is not the biggest part of the total, the actual gain over last year in the first three months as shown by Department of Commerce figures is about 44 per cent over last year.

The government's estimate of construction that has actually been in progress—as distinguished from awards of contracts for the future—reveals that in the first quarter of 1954, even after adjusting for seasonal factors, the annual rate is running well ahead of last year.

Whatever else the construction picture means in the way of employment in that one industry, it does indicate that because of the interrelationship of American industries, other businesses will benefit. For every new home means new furnishings, and every new commercial building means new equipment. The construction news is really good news of a continuing confidence that prevails in America about the trend toward a healthy economic era.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, April 8—My impious intrusions into the affairs of the Roosevelt and Delano families have convinced me that, though both breeds were richly endowed with greed and apathetic morals, the Delanos were far more adventurous. It would seem that they were Portugues from way back, come to Cap Cod and vicinity with various flotsam from the old world. The Roosevelts are said to have been Hollandaise but there is no trace of the family in the village chosen to be the scene of origin. There is some lore of Fairfield Delanos in the old Whaling Museum in New Bedford and I once bought a little pine box in an antique shop with a slip of paper pasted inside which bore in faded writing vague intimations that some member of the kinnery had carved it to contain his hard money. Fearful of a hex for my profanation of a sacred souvenir, I gave it to a Yankee friend who runs a heterodox paper as well at ease on one side of any question as the other. He said he would ever treasure same and placed it on the mantel by the autographed portrait of Herbert Hoover.

A Roosevelt would trim or blackmail a chump as gaily as a Delano would scuttle a ship but the difference between these gentle arts and piracy, opium-running and blackbirding was the very difference that I have observed. The Roosevelts drank, embezzled and not only kissed but boasted, whereas the Delanos, even down to the recent era of their non-union company towns in the Pennsylvania coal-belt, were given to more robust affronts.

A Delano named Daniel W., Jr., who got out a boastful book a few years ago, makes much of the career of Captain Amasa Delano, the first of the tribe, says he, ever to land in South America. Later, little Sara, a child who was to bear the man who fully redeemed our early incivility to George III, went twice around the horn with her father, Captain Warren Delano, on a Yankee clipper which carried a cow and chickens on the long voyage and hauled Turkish opium into Canton to buy silk and tea for the homeward run. Little Sara seems to have outnumbered that James Roosevelt whom she married late in his rather tasteless life. It is a historical shame that she confined her writing to an insipid tribute to her son, for she was haughty, ill-mannered and never negative. She might have told a oold story of a big life in times when the family had the candor to hold themselves better than the rabble. Amasa Delano, Warren and Sara had no time for the common people, but the mother of the Hyde Park Hant forebore to embarrass his political pose and expressed herself only in that sniffing contempt for the lower orders which she learned among the English gentry.

Daniel W. Delano, Jr., tells us that Amasa Delano, bound out from Quincy to China "at the beginning of the 19th century," picked up the Spanish slave-ship Prueba, whose cargo had revolted and killed most of the crew, and delivered ship and slaves to the authorities in Talcahauno, Chile. We are not told what befell the Negroes but Chile was not fastidious about slavery at the time so we may be pardoned a pessimistic surmise. There was, Daniel Delano, Jr., reports, "fierce fighting" between Captain Amasa Delano and his crew and the desperate Africans, comprising, he adds, "a colorful and heroic episode that added further lustre to the chronicles of a remarkable navigator."

A few years later, a cousin Captain Paul Delano, took citizenship in Chile and became commander of her fleet.

The American Captain Delano who was hanged for piracy with six of his crew at Malta, as related in "Salt Water or Neil D'arcy's Life at Sea," published I would think, about 60 years ago, is not as well identified as a historian would like. The author was William H. G. Kingston. Captain Delano's misbehavior seems to have occurred early in the 19th century but the book from the extinct press of Belford, Clarke and Company, New York and Chicago, bears no year and the story, itself, is an ambiguous mixture of obvious truth and lavish adornment. In brief, this Captain Delano, a black sheep, no doubt, high-jacked a number of innocent merchantmen but finally was paid the wages of sin in a grisly scene in Quarantine harbor, Malta, under British justice. As captain of the brig, William, which had lain neighbor to the brig, Helen, in the basin at Liverpool, he had noticed that the Helen was shipping luxurious merchandise. And when they were well down in the Mediterranean he had boarded her to slay and plunder.

However, as the author says, "they knew not of the eye above which watched them." And so a British man o' war came over the horizon, boarded the Helen, sinking from augur-holes in her bottom bored by Delano's carpenter, saved some survivors and overhauled the William, too.

In court, Delano was a cynical fellow. But on being doomed, he is said to have cried "Mercy! Mercy! Mercy! Oh spare my life, I am unfit to die! Send me to toil in chains with the meanest in the land but oh, take not away that which you cannot restore!"

Charles Adams, the first mate, was more stately. He said "Oh that my fate should be a warning to others and I should feel more content to die."

Having been duly hanged from the yard-arms of the William, two of the scoundrels were buried but Captain Delano and the rest were sewn in tarred sacks and dangled for months in chains from a lofty gibbet as "an awful warning to others."

LIONS SIGHT SAVING DRIVE

The Kingston Lions Club currently is conducting its sale of Blind Seals, the funds from which enable the Sight Conservation and Blind Committee of the local service club to carry on its work in behalf of the blind. The seals now are being sent to many residents of Kingston and Ulster County.

Here is a financial campaign that deserves our generous support.

The local club has received 392 eye pledges and now will establish an Eye Bank Substation in Kingston. The eyes will be placed in an iced container and may be transported anywhere in the United States. Eye surgeons estimate that at least 10,000 Americans, one out of every 25 of the American blind, probably can be made to see again through the graft-cornea operation.

BOOST TO THE ECONOMY

President Eisenhower is hopeful that the excise tax cuts which recently became effective may have a stimulating effect on our economy. The President had opposed some of the cuts on the ground that a balanced budget would be more difficult to achieve if revenue were cut. He signed the bill, however, with the hope that it will have the good effect its proponents predict for it.

At the moment there is some concern over the problem of unemployment. Full employment is related to consumer demand and if ways can be found to get people to buy more consumer goods the rate of unemployment will decline. One way to achieve this is by putting more purchasing power in the hands of consumers by lowering taxes.

The President's original objection to the excise tax cuts had some validity, however. Unemployment on any large scale means a decrease in government revenue through income tax. Government income has already been reduced by the elimination of some taxes and the reduction of others. Spending has been curtailed to some extent but if the loss of revenue exceeds the amount of money saved then the national debt will increase.

All Americans hope that the excise tax cuts will act as a spur to our economy. There is also a chance that the loss of revenue will be made up in some other way so that before too long a balanced budget can be achieved. Sound financial practices demand that we do our best to keep our public debt from growing much larger.

LIVE LONG AND LIKE IT

The city of 1,000,000 persons, all of whom needed attention, would be a major problem for any nation. That is New York City's plight. The 1,000,000 are those of its inhabitants who are over 60. Not that a man or woman becomes a public care on attaining this not so very advanced age, but that new problems arise. Elderly folk, if retired, often have nothing much to do with their time. Their children are married and perhaps live in other cities, in any case have interests of their own which prevent them from giving full attention to their parents.

Boredom and a feeling of uselessness largely account for the fact, stated by Henry L. McCarthy, the city's Commissioner of Welfare, that 60 per cent of all those admitted to mental hospitals are persons over 60.

A first attack on this problem is the opening of a Day Center for the old, where they can meet one another, create art objects and otherwise engage in hobbies. Many such are needed.

Some libraries have established "Live Long and Like It" clubs, which offer lectures, film showings, musicales and other forms of entertainment for those over 60. The audiences unanimously say that these meetings are the bright spot in their lives. Could not this practice be copied more widely?

A Newport, Rhode Island, councilman recently spent his seventeenth year in office without delivering a public speech. The man who discovered this gem of a public servant should be able to make a good living locating needles lost in haystacks.

'These Days'

Lady Astor, whose wit is so attractive, has made the point that Left-Wing Conservatism saved the Tory party in Great Britain; that the heavy-handed Tories could only have saved the Socialists. She apparently advises the Republicans to accept a mild dose of New Dealism to avoid a heavy dose of the A.D.A.

That might have been the program of the Eisenhower Administration had the Republican Party not permitted itself to be splintered and fractionated by diversions which are neither important to the party nor the country. For that reason, those who used to regard themselves as Taft Republicans—that is, those who could accept social reforms but not Socialism—wonder what has become of their party and whether it has any program at all. Calling Adlai Stevenson an egg-head, which is a euphemism for an educated dope, is not a program.

A case of fractionization appeared in the Women's National Republican Club in New York, which is a center for what might be called Republican intellectualism and has a committee to study the problems of Communism, which they have been doing in a manner that might be called interesting but unproductive.

So this committee invited William F. Buckley, Jr., to speak before it on April 26 and he accepted the invitation. Meanwhile, his book, "McCarthy and His Enemies," appeared, whereupon the board of directors cancelled the Buckley engagement. For some reason, they were not too anxious to tell him about it, but it leaked out and caused a quarrel that may seem of no significance compared to the hydrogen bomb, but which may nevertheless seriously affect the vote in New York in the 1954 campaign.

For, while what Lady Astor calls Left-Wing Republicans may have many thoughts on great subjects, the mechanics of party operations are the routine Republicans who waited for 20 years for the Democrats to be defeated and who were steadfast and loyal during those 20 years, doing the chores of party work in what appeared to be a political desert.

They are still in the desert with no oasis in sight. One of their number is Chairman of the Republican National Committee, but he has not been able to bring much bacon to his state in the form of jobs and honors to those who were steadfast and loyal in the bleak days of Roosevelt and Truman. The rejection of Buckley as a speaker before a Republican club is symbolic to the true and tried that their kind are not wanted.

What is being said among these ladies is repeated in every clubhouse in the State of New York. While it may appear to some that Governor Dewey's rough treatment to his principal supporters, because their associations with race-track ownership became public, is the cause for dissension, actually working-politicians of both parties know about such things and expect the top boss to look fierce when the whitewash becomes impossible.

What is producing a hand-sitting Republican Party in New York is that the party workers see their enemies continued in office; that they see Republicans who worked with Roosevelt and Truman continued in excellent jobs; that honors go to men who have never been known to be Republicans, even if they secretly belonged to the faith; that the party has lost its general conservatism and therefore makes fools out of those who for 20 years stood by it, preaching a doctrine which, while adopted by the 1952 Convention, has been officially forgotten.

So, it is to be expected that in 1954, the political mechanics will be on strike—not openly, of course. Politicians have a way of sitting on their hands and dragging their feet. The only act that might mobilize the Republicans in New York would be for the Democrats to nominate Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., for Governor.

In New Jersey, the same atmosphere prevails. The nomination of Clifford P. Case for United States Senator was directed from Washington. The old-line Republicans do not want Mr. Case, but they were too split among themselves to do anything about it. They cannot, in conscience, vote against Case, but many will not vote for him, which is the same thing.

The atmospheres in these states need to be reported because the Republican margin in Congress is so narrow that failure to hold what they now have can only strengthen the Democrats.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

HEART DISEASE IN CHILDREN

"We can do more today to help or heal children with heart disease than was thought possible just twenty years ago and studies under way hold even more hope for the future. Although the outlook in general is hopeful, heart disease in children and in adults remains a major health problem. It is estimated that about one in every hundred children of school age has rheumatic fever, rheumatic heart disease or congenital (born with it) heart disease."

I am quoting from a pamphlet published by the American Heart Association, 44 East 23rd street, New York 10, N. Y.

Most heart disease in childhood is the result of rheumatic fever which usually begins between the ages of five and 15 but can occur at any age. The main point for all of us to remember is that rheumatic fever is a more formidable disease than when the individual is born with heart disease, as nature apparently accustoms herself to this congenital type of heart disease and the body gets so used to it that the symptoms are less alarming.

The reason that the physician gives a guarded diagnosis in rheumatic fever is because it may occur several times in a lifetime, usually following either a simple or a severe sore throat or a short time after what is now called a streptococcus infection—a "strep" throat.

"Rheumatic fever is an insidious infection, often difficult to recognize because it may closely resemble or mimic a variety of other diseases. Rheumatic fever is difficult to control because it often appears in so mild a form that the patient does not look or feel particularly ill. It is difficult to know when an attack of rheumatic fever has ended because it may lie dormant for a time, then suddenly flare up in a more acute or serious form. Thus even when no symptoms or signs are seen, the infection may actualy be 'smoldering'."

The active infection may last for months and sometimes years. Even after an attack of rheumatic fever is apparently cured, it may return after a mild attack of sore throat or tonsillitis.

The unfortunate point about these attacks is that each time it occurs it may cause damage to the heart. This is the reason that the physician watches an attack of rheumatic fever carefully as it is now agreed that the child's heart is affected during an acute attack. After the first attack of rheumatic fever, two out of three patients are left with a damaged heart. It is these repeated attacks that make this disease so dangerous.

However, it is just because rheumatic fever is so dangerous that it gets more care and attention than formerly. "When rheumatic fever does leave the heart permanently injured, the injury is usually the result of either or both valves on the left side of the heart being damaged and leaving a scar roughened and sometimes deformed."

How can an attack of rheumatic fever be prevented or rendered less dangerous? Every attack of sore throat should be treated with penicillin or the sulfa drugs; this is the key to prevention.

"Looks Like We Get a New Lease on Life'

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington — (NEA) — GOP leaders argue that in spite of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's differences with the Eisenhower administration, he has a good record in support of the Presidents' program. This is the senator's 1953 voting record on 10 key issues tabulated by League of Women Voters:

McCarthy voted "Yea" on these:

Reduce foreign aid, July 1; restrict use of aid funds, July 29; admit additional immigrants, July 29; restrict stand-by controls, May 19; federal jurisdiction over tidelands, July 30; Communist China should not be admitted to the UN, June 3 (McCarthy absent, but would have voted Yea if present).

McCarthy voted "nay" on these issues:

Increase soil conservation, June 15; increase hospital building funds, July 7; increase Air Force funds $400 million, July 23; keep legal protection for women, July 16 (McCarthy absent but would have voted "Nay" if present).

One of the principal reasons why some of the key Eisenhower administration officials quit after little more than a year's service is that they can't take the punishment which a top government job requires. Many business executives have had the idea that being a Washington bureaucrat is the easiest work in the world. Once here, they have discovered that they had to work harder at more complex problems than they ever did in private business.

Clarence M. Randall, board chairman of Inland Steel, gave a demonstration of this while briefing reporters on the President's new foreign economic policy. He was asked about the number of bills that would be sent to Congress to put the President's plan into effect. Giving an unsatisfactory answer, Mr. Randall was pounced on to clear up the situation.

"I'm sorry," Mr. Randall apologized. "I've been working on this seven days a week for two months and I'm out on my feet. I don't know how many bills it will take."

You never can tell what will come out of a good free-for-all press conference. Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield set up a big conference the other day to unveil his new "pay-as-you-go" plan for operation of the Post Office Department. This plan has been in the making for 14 months. With charts and expert assistants, Mr. Summerfield spent over an hour explaining what it was all about. Even Robert Montgomery, White House radio and TV coach, was there to help out.

Just as the conference was about to break up, a reporter dropped an innocent question about whether Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy had ever settled up for misuse of his congressional frank, or free-mailing privilege on government business.

It took Mr. Summerfield only a minute to explain that Senator McCarthy had recently mailed in his check for $200 to pay up on what he owed. But that story got most of the front page attention, and the 350-page Post Office Department reorganization plan got buried inside the paper.

Government officials have learned the hard way that they should never make plans to do anything else when their appropriation bills are before Congress. But Nelson Rockefeller, Undersecretary of Health, Education and Welfare, got caught off base on this one the other day.

Some time previously, Mr. Rockefeller had agreed to be principal speaker at a National luncheon. He prepared a long and thorough address on the administration health program.

Just as he was beginning to speak, Mr. Rockefeller got an emergency call from his office. The House Appropriations Committee was about to begin hearings on his department's money bill.

Discarding his prepared text, Mr. Rockefeller made a few brief remarks about the health program, apologized and beat it for Capitol Hill so as not to keep his congressional masters waiting.

It is now illegal for anyone in Czechoslovakia to buy or own duplicating paper. The National Committee for Free Europe, in reporting this news from behind the Iron Curtain, attributes this situation to Communist fear. The Reds, the committee says, fear that the people will start printing underground, anti-Communist newspapers.

Best First Quarter in 63 Years Noted in Building Industry in U. S.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 9 — There's more good news from the construction industry in America. The month of March is not only very much ahead of February in contract awards, but the combined figures for January, February and March constitute the best first quarter in 63 years.

This means that not only has 1953 been topped, but also the previous record year, which was 1951.

The importance of this information to the business world is that contract awards for construction filed in March at the various city and state and federal offices means a turnover of money by midsummer. It is said that a contract awarded in March means dollars in the hands of consumers by June.

The figures come from F. W. Dodge Corporation, which has a large statistical organization for gathering data about construction. George Cline Smith, economist for the Dodge organization, says:

"Preliminary tabulations of the Dodge reports of construction contract awards in the 37 eastern states indicate that March awards were far and away the highest ever reported for any March.

"In addition to setting an all-time high for the month, the first quarter of 1954 set a new record for any first quarter in Dodge's 63-year history, since January and February also were at record levels for those months.

"These high March awards are not a fluke but are a continuation of a steady growth in construction activity. The 1953 awards were the highest annual total ever reported by Dodge reports. Seven out of the last twelve months have been at the highest level ever reported for those months.

"These records are not produced by a few large contracts or by any one special branch of construction. They represent high levels of activity in both residential and non-residential fields. It is hard to conceive of a prolonged severe decline in business activity when both individuals and businesses are expressing sufficient confidence in the future to contract for a record volume of construction."

A steady flow of building materials seems assured as well as high employment in the construction segment of the national economy.

When the detailed figures become available in a few days it will be seen that all the percentages are strongly up and the comparisons are on the bright side in every instance.

Officials here who have heard in advance about the figures are naturally pleased with the way the construction industry is going ahead to break all previous records. When the January data came out there was a feeling that perhaps the first month of the year was exceptional, but when February and March both showed a substantial increase over 1953 figures, it was apparent that the nation was experiencing a construction boom which, despite the reduction in governmental spending, was surpassing all records.

This, of course, is a dramatic illustration of what can happen when private spending is given a chance to operate without government restrictions. Not only is credit available, but there are no controls over materials to force artificial situations that bring higher prices. The law of supply and demand is operating on all fronts.

Just why is there the upturn in all classes of construction? One reason presumably is that whenever a war situation brings controls, there is underconsumption. Commercial buildings, for instance, which would have been built in 1950, 1951 and 1952 during the Korean war era, are only now being erected. While commercial building in itself is not the biggest part of the total, the actual gain over last year in the first three months as shown by Department of Commerce figures is about 44 per cent over last year.

The government's estimate of construction that has actually been in progress—as distinguished from awards of contracts for the future—reveals that in the first quarter of 1954, even after adjusting for seasonal factors, the annual rate is running well ahead of last year.

Whatever else the construction picture means in the way of employment in that one industry, it does indicate that because of the interrelationship of American industries, other businesses will benefit. For every new home means new furnishings, and every new commercial building means new equipment. The construction news is really good news of a continuing confidence that prevails in America about the trend toward a healthy economic era.

The American Captain Delano who was hanged for piracy with six of his crew at Malta, as related in "Salt Water or Neil D'arcy's Life at Sea," published I would think, about 60 years ago, is not as well identified as a historian would like. The author was William H. G. Kingston. Captain Delano's misbehavior seems to have occurred early in the 19th century but the book from the extinct press of Belford, Clarke and Company, New York and Chicago, bears no year and the story, itself, is an ambiguous mixture of obvious truth and lavish adornment. And when they were well down in the Mediterranean he had boarded her to slay and plunder.

However, as the author says, "they knew not of the eye above which watched them." And so a British man o' war came over the horizon, boarded the Helen, sinking from augur-holes in her bottom bored by Delano's carpenter, saved some survivors and overhauled the William, too.

In court, Delano was a cynical fellow. But on being doomed, he is said to have cried "Mercy! Mercy! Mercy! Oh spare my life, I am unfit to die! Send me to toil in chains with the meanest in the land but oh, take not away that which you cannot restore!"

Charles Adams, the first mate, was more stately. He said "Oh that my fate should be a warning to others and I should feel more content to die."

Having been duly hanged from the yard-arms of the William, two of the scoundrels were buried but Captain Delano and the rest were sewn in tarred sacks and dangled for months in chains from a lofty gibbet as "an awful warning to others."

Allaben

Allaben, April 9 — Miss Esther Riseley enjoyed the round trip on the last passenger train from Phoenicia to Oneonta recently. Others who made the trip were Joseph Feitzinger of Shandaken, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Byer of Phoenicia and a group from Chichester. The community misses the train whistle in the morning and afternoon.

Mrs. Edward C. Rowe and Mrs. Charles Henry Harbig visited at the home of Mrs. Joseph J. Garrity on Tuesday.

There were many visitors in this section Saturday afternoon when the Dome Gas and Oil Corp. began sinking its test well to find natural gas or oil. It reminded some of the days when the Shandaken Tunnel was being built—traffic cops, cars everywhere and people afoot.

Metuchen, N. J., April 8 (AP)—One hundred autos have been damaged on the assembly line of the Ford Motor Co. Lincoln-Mercury Division plant at Raritan Township, a company spokesman announced today. The cars were damaged Tuesday night and last night just before the plant shut down until Monday in a production shift which involves the layoff of 1,400 employes on the night shift, the spokesman said. The damage to the autos included smashed windshields, tail lights ripped off, wires cut, dashboard glass broken, and cloth roof and upholstery slashed.

$20,000 YM Drive To Open April 22 Throughout City

The YMCA financial drive for the 1954 youth program will begin April 22 and continue until May 6, it was announced today.

Slogan for the campaign is "Youth, a Y's Investment." Goal is $20,000.

Chester Baltz, Jr., and George J. Silkworth are general co-chairmen and Herman Schwenk is initial gifts chairman. The drive steering committee is composed of G. Herbert DeKay, Chester A. Dolson, Baltz, Silkworth, Rylance and Lou Schafer, general secretary.

House-to-house workers will meet April 20 at which time details of the individual cards solicitation will be explained by the general co-chairmen.

"The goal can be readily reached if all initial gift and general campaign workers contact all available subscribers," according to the steering committee.

More than 100 workers have signified their desire to assist in the drive, it was reported. Drive chairmen are still seeking additional workers.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., April 9—President Eisenhower and his Cabinet will not be the most important people of 1954. The Senators and Congressmen will not be the most important people of 1954. And this same statement can be made regarding bankers and other big shots. Conditions often make presidents, but presidents cannot make conditions.

The most important people during 1954 will be those now employed as salesmen, and especially the sales clerks in your stores. In previous years these people have not been so important; they served largely as "order takers," wrapping parcels and making change. But, conditions in 1954 will be different. They must create sales.

Fundamentally, prosperity and good times depend upon employment which supplies the money to buy. But manufacturers cannot furnish employment without orders for their goods. The orders depend upon the men and women at the counters of the stores. Prosperity or depression starts with the salesmen and sales clerks.

What About Advertising?

I am a great believer in honest advertising. A merchant's success is very dependent upon his advertising. Advertising bears the same relation to profits for the merchant as fertilizer does for the farmer. Still, the farmer cannot depend solely upon his seed and fertilizer. He must cultivate, spray, and gather his crops.

The same is true of advertising. Although advertising is absolutely necessary and much more of it should be used in 1954, yet merchants cannot expect it to take the place of hard work. Customers need to be cultivated the same as do crops. Advertising will help get people into the store and interest them in certain products; but the sale must be made by a man or woman employe.

My Father Was a Storekeeper

My father kept a dry goods, novelty, and sort of "variety store" in Gloucester, Mass. I worked in this store on Saturdays and during winter vacations. My father was very successful with this store, starting with nothing and becoming the leading merchant of Gloucester and vicinity.

He used to say to me: "Roger, when you grow up, either become a merchant or invest your money in good merchandising organizations, rather than in railroads or industrial promotions. A merchant with a fair turnover has nothing to fear and can always make money." But, my father was a good worker, at the store from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m., six days a week.

Knowing Every Customer

My father was a deacon in the local church; he had a large Sunday school class. He was very much interested in knowing and helping people. There were no such things as card files in those days; but he kept a book listing the children of each customer and, especially, listing cases of sickness. Then, there were no trained nurses. Neighbors would volunteer to "watch" at night with the sick, accepting of course, no pay. Every week my father would go away some night watching by the beside of the husband of some humble customer.

Father trained his clerks to get truly acquainted with everyone who entered his store. He would constantly check on the clerks—not by asking: "Did you make a sale?" but by asking: "How many children has that woman? Is there illness in the family?" He not only was the city's most successful merchant, but at his funeral the church could not hold the people who loved him and who loved all who ever worked for him. He didn't have a private office up a flight of stairs in the back of his store. His desk was by the door so he could say "Good Morning" to all as they came in, and "Good Luck" as they left. Sales are made through feelings rather than through figures.

A Suggestion

I forecast that if all the Chambers of Commerce would operate properly led night schools for their local Sales Clerks, national purchasing would so increase that there need be no unemployment, the Federal budget could be balanced, and taxes could be reduced. America does not need more money, but it needs more confidence and friendliness so that money will circulate more freely and more often.

To Introduce Stamp

Washington, April 8 (AP)—President Eisenhower today scheduled a 15-minute telecast from the Post Office Department to introduce America's "Liberty Stamp" to the U. S. public. The program called for fanfare never before accorded any individual postage issue. Printed in red, white and blue, the stamp is in the 8-cent denomination, the standard letter rate for overseas mail, and so will have its largest use on foreign deliveries.

Road Hog Stopped

Flint, Mich. (AP) — Walter J. Hurley stopped by police headquarters to announce: "I just punched a road hog." He explained another car forced him off the road and that he pursued it to a stop signal, where he jumped out, yanked open the door and punched the driver. "Just wanted to get it on record in case you get a complaint," Hurley said.

Industrial Club Will Hear Negro Minister Tuesday

Dr. Charles Emerson Boddie, who at one time was cited as the Man of the Week in Huntington, W. Va., for his courageous stand on obtaining inter-racial unity, will be the guest speaker for the Industrial Management Club of Kingston next Tuesday, April 13, at the YMCA at 6:30 p. m.

A buffet supper will be served at 6:30 p. m. after which the regular meeting will start. David Cates, who will preside at his first meeting as president, requests a large attendance.

Dr. Boddie author of two published books, Giant of the Earth and The Basis of the Negro Spiritual, will speak on the subject, All These People.

His book, Giant of the Earth, is a philosphy of effective living based on the life of his father, while The Basis of the Negro Spiritual, is a thesis on Negro philosophy as reflected in Negro songs. He also has written other articles which appear regularly in professional, religious and sociological journals.

Son of Baptist Cleric

Born in New Rochelle, Dr. Boddie is one of 11 children. The son of a Baptist minister and a college-trained mother, he and his brothers and sisters were inspired by his parents' great faith in the value of both religion and education.

During his college days, Dr. Boddie obtained his AB degree from Syracuse University, his BD degree from the Colgate-Rochester Divinity School, his AM degree from the University of Rochester and his DD from Keuka.

The following statement was released when Dr. Boddie made a recent personal appearance:

"His effective efforts to help people of all faiths live together in harmony are rays of hope in a world marked with man-made boundary lines of fear and greed. It is no wonder that he has attained great stature in the hearts of all who have heard him speak.

Dr. Boddie has appeared before such groups as the Rotary Club in Johnson City, Teacher's Association in Geneva, the Rochester Ad Club and the New York Shoe Dealer's Association among others.

Crown Jewels Found

Stuttgart, Germany, April 8 (AP) — Police said today several diamonds from the stolen Hohenzollern crown jewels have been found in a tin can buried under an oak tree near Bad Homburg, famous west German spa near Frankfurt. The diamonds were among $100,000 worth of gems and other precious objects taken last July 30 from Hohenzollern castle in south Germany. Police said an ex-convict named Paul Falk has admitted the theft.

Gets Navy's Goats

Portsmouth, N. H. (AP)—Albert Kobel of Amesbury, Mass., recently got the Navy's goat. But it cost him $92. Following two years' service at the Long Island fuel depot to Casco Bay, Maine, the Navy called for bids on 23 "auxiliary lawnmowers." At the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard's sale, Kobel bid high on the goats at $4 apiece.

Quick Brown Fox

Orangeburg, S. C. (AP) — There was no gun handy when a fox showed himself near a residence here. Caldwell Brown picked up a tire pump and took off on foot after the animal—caught it, too, and killed it with the pump.

The McCarthy Story

(In an exclusive interview, two veteran AP reporters asked Sen. Joseph McCarthy about his political plans. In this second article of two, here are his answers).

By JACK BELL and RELMAN MORIN

Washington, April 9 (AP)—Is Sen. McCarthy running for President? Is he trying to capture control of the Republican party?

The Wisconsin senator answers "no" to both questions in this recorded interview with the Associated Press. Participating also were Roy M. Cohn, chief counsel of McCarthy's investigating committee. Here are the questions, and McCarthy's answers:

Q. Senator, there has been a great deal of speculation on the question of whether you are running for the Republican presidential nomination in 1956 or a later year.

McCarthy. The answer is definitely no.

Q. Along that line, are you trying to capture the Republican party in any way?

A. Definitely not. Any such attempt on the part of any one senator would be ridiculous.

Q. You said you are not trying to capture the Republican party. Do you want to be the power behind the throne and have a powerful voice in naming the next Republican presidential nominee? Is that one of your objectives?

A. Would I like to have something to say about naming the next—

Q. More than just something.

A. I generally campaign for a man who I think would be the best candidate. I assume I will campaign for the man who I think could be the best Republican president again.

Batting Average Good

Q. At this point you have said, I think recently, that Eisenhower's batting average is so high that you would campaign for him in 1956. I assume that batting average is maintained.

A. I think his batting average is good. I would campaign for him if he were running today.

Q. In a televised speech, Nov. 24, 1953, you said, "Let us glance at a few cases where our batting average is zero, where we struck out in our efforts to rid the government of Reds and pro-Reds." Do you believe that the average is higher now or lower?

A. At that time I said I thought the average was high. I discussed the John Paton Davies case. I thought our batting average was zero in that case.

(John Paton Davies is a career diplomat whose loyalty has been challenged by McCarthy. He has been cleared seven times by State Department loyalty-security boards and once by the government's top Loyalty Review Board in the Truman administration. Secretary of State Dulles announced March 23 that Davies will go before a special security board to clear up "conflicting points" raised in a new investigation of his record. Davies currently is counselor to the U. S. Embassy at Lima, Peru.)

I think President Eisenhower's batting average was good then. I still think it is good. I don't expect we will ever have a President, no matter how good he is, who will be perfect all the time. That is one of the reasons why you have a Congress.

If you could elect a President who was a perfect individual, he wouldn't need the check of the Congress.

Q. It has been frequently asserted that you are deliberately provoking a fight with the President. Is that true in any way?

A. I think if you just examine who does the shouting you might get the answer to that. Whenever I dig out a Communist who was brought in by the old administration, I find someone like the Alsops, Edward R. Murrow or Drew Pearson shouting that McCarthy is starting a fight with the President.

Says He's Doing Job

It is so ridiculous that you can hardly answer it. I am doing the job that the President promised that our administration would do, dig out the Communists.

I may say the President has never indicated to me that he was unhappy about digging Communists out.

Q. Has he ever indicated to you that he was unhappy about the methods that you have used in digging out Communists?

A. No. Let's have this qualification. He may have said things in press conferences that you might interpret to mean he was unhappy. I would let you interpret those because they are all matters of public record. As far as communication to me, directly or through anybody on his staff, or anyone else, he has never indicated any unhappiness.

Q. You don't interpret these press conference remarks as indicating unhappiness, as you call it, with the method you have used?

A. You will have to tell me what method you have in mind. By "method" do you have in mind the method of calling a witness in, examining him and getting the truth? I don't imagine he would be unhappy with that.

Q. The method of calling them in and examining—

Record Is Available

A. I can't conceive why he would be unhappy with that. You have to name some method that is objectionable. The record is available for anyone to see. We call a man in. We give him every right to counsel. Give him every right to rebut the testimony against him. I can't think of anything we can do in addition to that. If anyone has any further suggestions, I would be glad to hear them. You find people screaming about methods, but they never tell what methods they have in mind.

Q. Just what are your personal relations with the President? You meet him once in awhile, at least socially. You have been to the White House.

A. I personally like him. Whenever I have met him, it has been a friendly meeting.

Q. You think his reaction to you is the same as your reaction to him?

A. He would have to answer that.

Q. In view of the statements that have been made recently by some Republican senators in the leadership and Leonard Hall, the national chairman, do you think there is rising opposition to you within the party, within the Republican party?

A. I think you would be just as good a judge of that as I am. There were times in the early days of this fight when it was not too popular in the eyes of some for a senator to be seen talking to me on the floor of the Senate. Then there are times when a great number of congressmen and senators were clamoring for me to come into their states to speak. I have seen times when some of them definitely didn't want me in their state.

If I were to be concerned about my own personal popularity, with the ebb and flow of personal popularity, I couldn't do a job down here. I just have to go ahead and do this job—it is unpleasant— and not worry much about what effect it has on personal popularity.

Q. Do you ever regard yourself as an issue in the coming elections?

Thinks Issue Vital

A. Well, I think the issue of communism is an all important issue. The question of whether or not we have been doing a good job of digging them out I believe will be an issue. In view of the fact that I have been active in that work, my name is identified with the issue of communism—I am not sure whether that is answering your question or not—

Q. What the Democrats call "McCarthyism."

A. McCarthyism, I assume, is digging out the Communists that they allowed to come in over the past 20 years. That is a phrase coined by the Communist Daily Worker. I didn't coin it. Apparently that means digging out their pet Communists.

Q. Are you going into any what might be called private fights among Republicans for senatorial nominations?

A. Under no circumstances will I take any part in any Republican primary.

Q. Will you actively support or in any way support Margaret Chase Smith's opponent in Maine?

A. I will take no part in any primary. That includes Maine.

Q. Might you speak in Maine under any circumstances during the primary, even though you were not taking part in it?

Maine, No Blacklist

A. I certainly wouldn't blacklist Maine. I don't have any present definite engagement to speak in Maine. I get about 25 or 30 invitations a day to speak in states from coast to coast. I received a number of invitations from Maine. I spoke up there twice, one Saturday and one Sunday several months ago, to veterans groups. I have had requests from other veterans groups to speak. Whether I will accept any or not, I don't know. If I do, I will be accepting them without any regard to the primary fight in Maine. In other words, I am not going to go in or stay out because of any primary fight in any state.

Q. That goes for any state, of course?

A. That is right. Very definitely. I am not taking part in any of these primaries.

Q. I have a general question: Your critics accuse you of dividing the nation and creating fear and confusion in America. Do you think there has been any such result from your work?

A. In other words, do you think I am creating fear by digging out Communists?

Q. I am not saying that; I say your critics have said that.

A. I think we are creating considerable fear on the part of Communists. There is no one else who should be afraid of our digging out Communists. I think this present tempest in a teapot about a few Fifth Amendment Communists we dug out of the army is a good example. There are a lot of people who are screaming that we are hurting the morale of the army. If you will drop over to my office and glance through a few of the thousands of letters I receive daily, you will find that 99 out of 100 military men who write are extremely happy about the fact that at long last the few Communists who are a disgrace to the army are being exposed. They don't want Communists in the army. In fact, they are as interested in getting them as I am.

I may be getting away from your question, "do you think you are creating fear and confusion?" I think fear on the part of the Communists, yes.

Trying Disassociation

Q. To some of your critics your recent statements seem to have indicated that you are trying to disassociate yourself more or less with this last controversy which is largely between Mr. Cohn and Mr. Adams and you and Mr. Stevens, that you are deprecating the amount of importance of this thing. Is that your attitude on it?

A. I have said that I think the people are getting awfully sick of seeing the work of a committee held up pending the settlement of a dispute between my chief counsel and the army's chief civilian counsel. I don't mean that that dispute should not be settled. I think the senators and the public are entitled to get the information on it. I think it is ridiculous, however, in view of the fact that the staff on our committee has nothing to do with this investigation on Adams and Roy (Cohn) that they should be forced to sit around doing nothing. We have a tremendous backload of work, for example, we have the names of 130 people in defense plants, plants handling secret and other classified work, who have backgrounds of Communist activities. They all must be called in and put under oath and questioned about this. I think that is of vital importance. Some of those witnesses, if they act like those in the past, will even take the Fifth Amendment on whether or not they would sabotage the plant if ordered to do so by the Communist party in case of war with Communist Russia. They must be dug out.

We have ready for hearing a case in which there is alleged attempted bribery and fraud in Alaska. It is extremely important to have public hearings on that. We have completed our preliminary investigations, haven't we?

Cohn: Yes, senator.

McCarthy: We have a sizeable number of cases involving what appears to be favoritism, unusual settlements in tax cases under the previous administration. There is a vast amount of work that should be done. I think it is ridiculous to hold up all that work, while we are waiting for the staff to be formed on this new subcommittee of which I appointed Carl Mundt the chairman.

No Objection at All

I would have no objection at all to giving priority to any hearing on the Adams-Cohn case if the senators want that; in other words, if they want to hold a hearing on a certain date certainly we shouldn't interfere with them on that by other hearings. But when they are not holding hearings, there is no reason why we shouldn't proceed with our work.

Q. One last question of a general nature: What do you regard as your greatest accomplishment in the work you have done since you came to the Senate, particularly in this field of trying to find Communists?

McCarthy: I wouldn't try to answer that. It is a going fight—you can't measure your accomplishments in the number of Communist heads that have fallen. It's impossible to try and put your finger on any one thing that we may have accomplished which is most important. Besides, I would be the worst judge of that.

392 Eye Pledges Are Received Here By Kingston Lions

The Kingston Lions Club announces that as of this date they have received 392 eye pledges. This places the Kingston club in second place among the Lions Clubs holding membership in the Sight Conservation Society of Northeastern New York. Schenectady Lions Club leads the field with 1,188 pledges while Albany follows Kingston with 327 pledges.

The large number of pledges received by the Kingston club enables the local club to establish an "Eye Bank Sub Station" here in Kingston. A thermos jug like container will be stored at the Kingston Hospital. Two eye surgeons will be standing by ready to enucleate the eyes of a deceased person who has pledged his eyes so "they may live after him." The eyes are placed in the iced container and may be transported anywhere in the United States. The corneas may be used for transplantation within 36 hours after death. Eye surgeons estimate that at least 10,000 Americans, one out of every 25 of all the American blind, could probably be made to see again through the graft-cornea operation.

The funds received by the sale of Blind Seals enables the Sight Conservation and Blind Committee of the Kingston Lions Club to carry on such projects. Blind Seals are now being sent to many residents of Kingston and Ulster county.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

I was given several volumes of The Valley of the Hudson, River of Destiny which covers prominent men of some 16 Hudson river counties from about 1609 to 1930 when the book was printed by S. J. Clarke Publishing Co. of Chicago. Most of the writeups are with photographs, no doubt the favorite of the persons written, for it is a handsome set of books. The first picture in volume IV is that of Hon. Alphonso Trumpbour Clearwater, LL.D. of Kingston, his being an excellent engraving by Henry Taylor, Jr. and Son, of Chicago. His story covers six pages. I remember Judge Clearwater when he used to come in to the Whelan drug store soda counter. Most of us knew the late judge through his excellent book on local history.

With Kingston Hospital being rebuilt no doubt many old timers remember when it was rebuilt after the fire during the time of Dr. George Fletcher Chandler. This book has a fine story on Dr. Chandler from the time he first came to Kingston in 1901 to practice surgery. In 1930, at the time of the writing of this book, he was chief of staff and a member of the board of managers of Kingston Hospital. In addition, he served as consultant for the Veterans' Memorial Hospital at Ellenville, and for St. Francis Hospital in Poughkeepsie. He was also consulting surgeon for the State Institution for Defective Delinquents at Napanoch.

Doctor Chandler was born in Clyde Dec. 13, 1873 and was an only son of Rev. George William Chandler and Izora Schwartz Chandler. Izora Chandler was an artist and author of note, wrote stories of dogs and painted miniatures of dogs. Dr. Chandler received his early instruction from a private tutor and later attended Ithaca High School. He studied liberal arts in Syracuse University and graduated from College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University with the class of 1895. Shortly afterwards he was appointed house surgeon at St. Vincent's Hospital in New York and for three years he was physician at Wanamaker's in New York.

When coming to Kingston in 1901 he acted as chief surgeon at Benedictine Hospital for five years and since that time became active at Kingston Hospital. Dr. Chandler first married Miss Martha Schultze of Syracuse who was the daughter of William H. Schultze, Dean of the College of Music, Syracuse University. They had two sons, Dan, a West Point graduate and Fehmer, known in Kingston and in Hollywood as "Chick" Chandler. Most Kingstonians know about his connection with Company M, 10th Regiment of N.Y. Infantry of which he was later commissioned as Major Chandler, and the State Troopers which he organized. He wrote a book called Policeman's Manual as he regarded police work as a profession.

Besides his being active in various other phases of state and city life and his being so popular that at one time, it is said, he was asked to run for mayor on both Democratic and Republican tickets, but declined. In his youth, he played the violin so well that he was a part of the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra besides having a fine singing voice. He gave freely of his talents locally when called upon to do so for a worthy cause. In 1930 he was elected vice-president of the American Assn. of Obstetricians, Gynecologists and Abdominal Surgeons, membership in which is limited to 150. He was also a liberal contributor to various medical journals, being a member of the American Medical Editors' and Authors' Assn.

The McCarthy Story

(In an exclusive interview, two veteran AP reporters asked Sen. Joseph McCarthy about his political plans. In this second article of two, here are his answers).

By JACK BELL and RELMAN MORIN

Washington, April 9 (AP)—Is Sen. McCarthy running for President? Is he trying to capture control of the Republican party?

The Wisconsin senator answers "no" to both questions in this recorded interview with the Associated Press. Participating also were Roy M. Cohn, chief counsel of McCarthy's investigating committee. Here are the questions, and McCarthy's answers:

Q. Senator, there has been a great deal of speculation on the question of whether you are running for the Republican presidential nomination in 1956 or a later year.

McCarthy. The answer is definitely no.

Q. Along that line, are you trying to capture the Republican party in any way?

A. Definitely not. Any such attempt on the part of any one senator would be ridiculous.

Q. You said you are not trying to capture the Republican party. Do you want to be the power behind the throne and have a powerful voice in naming the next Republican presidential nominee? Is that one of your objectives?

A. Would I like to have something to say about naming the next—

Q. More than just something.

A. I generally campaign for a man who I think would be the best candidate. I assume I will campaign for the man who I think could be the best Republican president again.

Batting Average Good

Q. At this point you have said, I think recently, that Eisenhower's batting average is so high that you would campaign for him in 1956. I assume that batting average is maintained.

A. I think his batting average is good. I would campaign for him if he were running today.

Q. In a televised speech, Nov. 24, 1953, you said, "Let us glance at a few cases where our batting average is zero, where we struck out in our efforts to rid the government of Reds and pro-Reds." Do you believe that the average is higher now or lower?

A. At that time I said I thought the average was high. I discussed the John Paton Davies case. I thought our batting average was zero in that case.

(John Paton Davies is a career diplomat whose loyalty has been challenged by McCarthy. He has been cleared seven times by State Department loyalty-security boards and once by the government's top Loyalty Review Board in the Truman administration. Secretary of State Dulles announced March 23 that Davies will go before a special security board to clear up "conflicting points" raised in a new investigation of his record. Davies currently is counselor to the U. S. Embassy at Lima, Peru.)

I think President Eisenhower's batting average was good then. I still think it is good. I don't expect we will ever have a President, no matter how good he is, who will be perfect all the time. That is one of the reasons why you have a Congress.

If you could elect a President who was a perfect individual, he wouldn't need the check of the Congress.

Q. It has been frequently asserted that you are deliberately provoking a fight with the President. Is that true in any way?

A. I think if you just examine who does the shouting you might get the answer to that. Whenever I dig out a Communist who was brought in by the old administration, I find someone like the Alsops, Edward R. Murrow or Drew Pearson shouting that McCarthy is starting a fight with the President.

A sad story with the makings of a happy ending: in 1952, Betty Buehler was hailed as one of Hollywood's coming stars. She'd co-starred with Broderick Crawford in "The Mob," and had a big part in "Taxi." In 1953, she came back to New York, where she started, but found that TV producers had forgotten her. There were hard times. Finally, she got a job—as a secretary.

Then Roscoe Karns gave her a part on his DuMont show, "Rocky King, Detective." Maybe the worst is over. Let's watch and see this real drama unfold.

The Original Amateur Hour, now 20 years old, will have a splashy show on April 10th to signalize its 101st broadcast. In that time, they've auditioned 800,000 aspirants—including kids like Paul Winchell, Teresa Brewer, Mimi Benzell and Frank Sinatra. It was worth the trouble.

Whenever Betty Anne Grove frowns, which is seldom, the lines between her eyes form an italic capital H. The foregoing information has no significance whatever, but once I noticed the phenomenon across a luncheon table. I couldn't take my eyes off it. Few people in my set have H's on their persons.

Maybe it stands for Happy, because that's what Betty Ann is. She is also pretty. She is also talented. She is also fresh out of a job—she used to play Red Buttons' girl friend, but lost out in the big Buttons bust-up a week or so back. She is not completely unemployed, however, because she still does "The Big Payoff" and "The Stork Club," which keeps her solvent.

Betty Ann is a jill of all rades—she sings, she dances, she acts, she is funny. It all began when she danced in a Providence, R. I., nightclub.

"That didn't last long," she said, with an H-frown. "After one engagement, they asked me to sing."

Although she'd had no voice training, she did well enough to land some top TV jobs. Then one day her voice quit, so she had to quick take lessons.

"I never could sing ballads before," she says, "because I couldn't sustain a note. Now I can. In my lessons, I sing opera and things like 'The Messiah.' I'll never have to do that on TV, but it's nice to know I can.

She's also the only gal on TV with an H between her eyes. As far as I'm concerned, she could make a career out of that alone.

Roger Price, the man who invented "Droodles," is a deep-thinker. And he has deep-thought that what New York needs is more weather. His campaign goes on nightly over his local New York TV weather show, but I thought you might be interested in hearing how this public-spirited citizen is progressing.

Roger has priced a glacier, and he says he can get it for only $400. It is a Size 24 glacier, and would cover the island of Manhattan up to 34th street, plus all of Queens and part of New Jersey. The glacier is used, but in excellent condition since the old owners were some elderly Eskimos who didn't abuse it.

The glacier should pep up New York's weather, which has been pretty dull the last few years. If it doesn't work out, perhaps then Roger could get something else. I know where he can pick up some hot monsooons cheap.

Eddie Albert and his wife, Margo, will make their nightclub debut as a team at the Waldorf-Astoria's Empire Room. Separately, of course, they've done wonderful things—but it's nice for a young married couple to spend their evenings together.

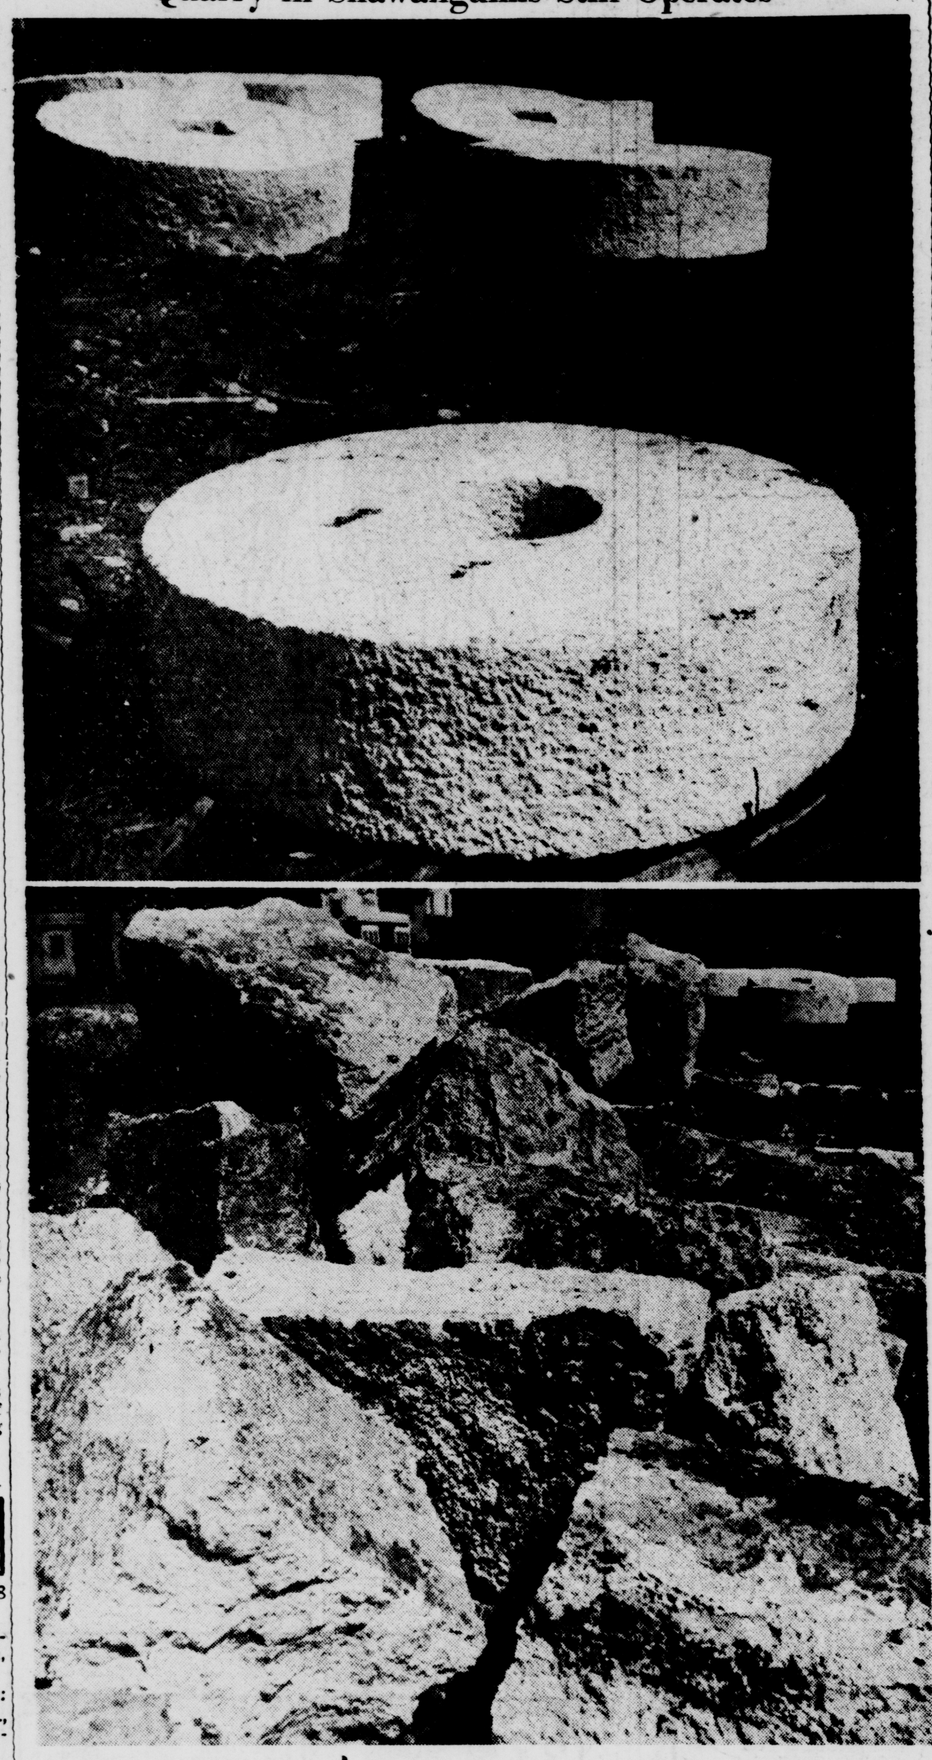
Quarry in Shawangunks Still Operates



Here are views of the type stone quarried on the property of the Lawrence Brothers in the Accord area of the Shawangunks and a sample of the millstones which are still being produced there. (Freeman photo)

Demand Is Found For Millstones of Ulster's Quarries

By CHARLES R. DOUGLAS

Other generations might find new uses for Ulster county's stone wealth, but until then, a few men are carrying on as specialists to meet whatever output demands remain since the industry began diminishing three or four decades ago.

One demand today is for a type of stone that is a symbol of a slower moving industrial world —the millstone.

At least one quarry in the area still turns out millstones, and there also is found the hint of a possible important future for the industry, because blocks for modern building are being hauled from the same area.

Wallace and Vincent Lawrence are still producing stone known as Shawangunk conglomerate from a property along a backroad a short distance southeast of Accord.

Started by Grandfather

Their grandfather, George Lawrence, started the small industry long before the turn of the century. He was followed by his son, Warren, who at one point several years ago, hired as many as eight men.

Wallace and Vincent, known in business as The Lawrence Brothers, are more interested in production of stone for building today, but from the same area Friend Bush, of High Falls and George Coddington, of Accord, are quarrying the stone they finish into millstones.

Concerns producing mustard and others manufacturing paints are still interested in millstones, Wallace Lawrence said, and his friends Bush and Coddington are filling such demands.

"Few people realize," Lawrence said, "that at one time this was a half million dollar business."

Wallace's father, Warren, who died six years ago, had turned out work for the wealthy Raymond Pitcairn, of Philadelphia, who, several years ago, was constructing a multi-million-dollar home. Pitcairn also has a home in the Catskills overlooking the Ashokan reservoir.

"My father sent down a stone weighing 12-tons," Wallace said. This was about 14 years ago, and it was used, he said, for the carving of portraits of members of the family.

Is Near Surface

"We don't have to go down deep for the stone," he explained. "It's near the ground surface, and easy to quarry."

Shawangunk conglomerate, Wallace said, is "a form of quartz." The latter, one authoritative source says, is a form of silica (silicone dioxide) "occurring in sexagonal crystals which are commonly colorless and transparent, but sometimes also yellow, brown, purple, green, etc. It also occurs in crystalline masses of vitreous luster and in cryptocrystalline massive forms varying in color and degree of transparency, being sometimes opaque. It is the most common of all solid minerals."

This does not mean, however, that Shawangunk conglomerate, as such, is common. Certainly it is not in New York and several other states, and if there is much more of it around, it is not as visibly near the surface as that in the Shawangunks.

Millstone grit, probably the type more commonly used abroad, is described as a formation "mainly of hard, course sandstone and fine conglomerate underlying the coal measures in the British Isles."

The millstone helped fill granaries from ancient times to the era of faster machines, and since it is still used it apparently does as well in some places as the modern machine.

Color in Top Strata

Most of the color in the stone shipped from the Lawrence quarry, Wallace said, is found in the top strata. The stone he and his brother now quarry is shipped for exterior building, fireplaces or decorative effects, and they have shipped some of the blocks to points on Long Island and the metropolitan area.

The Lawrence Brothers' grandfather, George, was quarrying the stone in the Shawangunks at the same time Ulster county was shipping stone from the foothills of the Catskill Mountains to build the sidewalks of New York, the curbing along those walks, and at a time when builders in New York and other large and small cities of the east were using the bluestone for door and window sills.

Quarrying at no time in the Shawangunks became as extensive as it was in the Catskills, but three generations of the Lawrence family and neighbors around them saw a lot of stone leave the quarry on the hill.

Years ago, when the millstone shipments were more frequent than they are today a flatcar could be seen loading or ready to ship almost any time at the O. & W. station in the Accord area. In those days and long before them, stone teams were in daily procession to and from the foothills of the Catskills and the stone docks in the Kingston and Saugerties areas, from where tugs and barges hauled it to the cities.

Today the bigger commercial stone is the crushed stone turned out at Kingston and other points along the Hudson river for road building and other concrete and construction work.

About 72 per cent of the U. S. government spending in World War 2 was covered by taxes, says the Twentieth Century Fund.

Here are some of the questions and answers overheard at the Bureau of Naturalization:

Questioner—Where is Washington?

Immigrant—He's dead.

Questioner—I mean the Capital of the United States.

Immigrant—Oh, they loaned it all to Europe.

Questioner—Do you promise to support the Constitution?

Immigrant—Me? How can I? I've a wife and six children to support.

In the United States approximately 1,333 boys and men die for every 1,000 girls or women, and the number of male deaths compared with female deaths is increasing.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

IS THERE A TAXIDERMIST IN THE HOUSE?

The other night I was sitting in Lindy's chinning with a friend of mine, a midtown furrier who occasionally invests a few dollars in a Broadway show. We were swapping ideas about what a heck of a National Theatre we could build if somebody gave us $30,000,000 for that purpose.

(I'd better explain that it was late, and, according to the strict house rules at Lindy's, after 12 o'clock nobody is allowed to discuss any project which involves less than $30,000,000.)

Suddenly, in the midst of our Einsteinian mathematics, the furrier pointed to a man who was standing at the bar.

"Get a load of the face on that guy," he said.

I looked, and what I saw was an Air Force major in his early 30's, with enough ribbons on his tunic to make it clear he had been in places where people had shot real bullets at him. It was obvious from the way the muscles in his face were working that something was eating him.

"Looks like the old story," I said. "He had a girl, and now he hasn't got a girl."

"Why don't you do something for your country and ask him to join us?" said the furrier.

I went over and introduced myself. "Major," I said, "if you have nothing better to do, my friend and I would like you to have a drink with us."

"Might as well get drunk sitting down as standing up," said the soldier.

I took him over to our table and he ordered a double Scotch.

"Mind if I ask what's wrong?" said the furrier.

"What's wrong," said the flier, "is that I'm all washed up. That's what's wrong."

"That's no way to talk," I said. "You can always get a girl."

"Who said anything about girls?" said the Major. "What's wrong is I'm a has-been. A museum piece. A dinosaur when the pools dried up."

"I don't follow you," I said. "What's your beef? It might do you good to get it off your chest."

"Talking can't help," said the Major, "but it can't hurt either. It's like this. I joined the Air Force a dozen years ago—right after I got out of Harvard. Flying's my business. It's what I know and it's all I know. Now I'm about to go out of business."

"How come?" said the furrier.

"Our Air Force is getting bigger all the time."

"Oh, sure," said the flier. "More and more planes every year. But fewer and fewer pilots. They're replacing us with wire, fuses, and tubes that light up pretty. Automatic pilots, remote controlled planes, guided missiles. Ten years from now, instead of pilots, they'll be using preset relays."

"So what?" I said. "You'll get yourself a job on the ground where you won't have so far to fall."

The Major looked at me with eyes which had probably looked down on Berlin and Ploesti.

"What do you know about falling?" he said. "For 12 years, now, I've done all my work in an office five miles up. Flying was the only job I ever had—and it suited me fine. Now they're getting ready to ground me. That's a heck of a long way to fall, mister."

"All good things come to an end," said the furrier.

"But why so soon?" said the Major. "The artillery lasted 600 years, the infantry almost 3,000. But fliers? Fifty little years since Kitty Hawk, and poof!—we're gone like the dinosaur."

The flier upended his glass, rose to his feet and wished us goodnight. My friend and I watched him weave his way to the revolving doors.

After a moment's silence, the furrier grunted.

"He thinks he's becoming extinct!" he said. "He should see the kind of business my firm did last year."

Motorist Floats

Nashua, N. H. (AP)—A charge of operating an improperly registered motor vehicle in Municipal Court brought out that the driver had a car registered in Connecticut, held a Maryland driver's license, claimed to be a resident of Maine and was arrested in New Hampshire. Given a $5 suspended fine, police wrote one word beside the address line on the report—"floater."

New car dealers in the United States declined in numbers from 45,166 to 42,181 between 1953 and 1954.

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Today's hand will be familiar to all of my readers who happened to be in Australia 17 years ago. It was part of a set of prepared hands that were meant to test the skill of the Australian players.

If you didn't happen to be there at the time, and if you weren't even in New Zealand, you may want to test yourself here and now at a contract of four spades. It isn't easy to find the right line of play even if you allow yourself a peek at the East-West cards.

West leads the ten of clubs, and you win with the ace. Thus far you haven't made a mistake. You lead a trump to dummy's king, and West's discard reveals the bad news. The correct play is to ruff dummy's remaining club at once. You next cash the top diamonds and get out with a third round of diamonds.

Whoever wins the third diamond (probably West, since there is no advantage in dropping the queen so as to let East win the diamond) must return a heart. Suppose West leads the heart, and dummy's queen is covered by the king. You win with the ace of hearts and return a heart to dummy's jack.

Now you lead a trump from dummy. East should play the jack and you let him hold the trick! This is the second end-play in the same hand. East cannot save himself.

If East leads another trump, you can finesse and draw the last trump. Your remaining diamond is good and you will lose the last trick to the ten of hearts.

If East returns a club instead of a trump, you can discard your losing heart and ruff in dummy. Now you can lead dummy's last trump for a finesse, and you will make 11 tricks instead of only 10.

Give yourself a demerit if you tried the heart finesse after winning the first round of trumps in the dummy. Good defense will then manage to defeat you.

Temper Is Expensive

Detroit (AP)—Detroiter Richard Coker's anger grew with each block he circled. He couldn't find a place to park. And, after all, he'd come downtown to pay off a ticket for illegal parking. Finally he drove smack onto the sidewalk at City Hall, and stormed in to give the mayor a piece of his mind. The mayor was out. So Coker stormed back to the sidewalk—only to find police had towed his car away. That cost him $10 on top of his $3 ticket.

"Who said anything about girls?" said the Major. "What's wrong is I'm a has-been. A museum piece. A dinosaur when the pools dried up."

"I don't follow you," I said. "What's your beef? It might do you good to get it off your chest."

"Talking can't help," said the Major, "but it can't hurt either. It's like this. I joined the Air Force a dozen years ago—right after I got out of Harvard. Flying's my business. It's what I know and it's all I know. Now I'm about to go out of business."

"How come?" said the furrier.

"Our Air Force is getting bigger all the time."

"Oh, sure," said the flier. "More and more planes every year. But fewer and fewer pilots. They're replacing us with wire, fuses, and tubes that light up pretty. Automatic pilots, remote controlled planes, guided missiles. Ten years from now, instead of pilots, they'll be using preset relays."

"So what?" I said. "You'll get yourself a job on the ground where you won't have so far to fall."

The Major looked at me with eyes which had probably looked down on Berlin and Ploesti.

"What do you know about falling?" he said. "For 12 years, now, I've done all my work in an office five miles up. Flying was the only job I ever had—and it suited me fine. Now they're getting ready to ground me. That's a heck of a long way to fall, mister."

"All good things come to an end," said the furrier.

"But why so soon?" said the Major. "The artillery lasted 600 years, the infantry almost 3,000. But fliers? Fifty little years since Kitty Hawk, and poof!—we're gone like the dinosaur."

The flier upended his glass, rose to his feet and wished us goodnight. My friend and I watched him weave his way to the revolving doors.

After a moment's silence, the furrier grunted.

"He thinks he's becoming extinct!" he said. "He should see the kind of business my firm did last year."

Motorist Floats

Nashua, N. H. (AP)—A charge of operating an improperly registered motor vehicle in Municipal Court brought out that the driver had a car registered in Connecticut, held a Maryland driver's license, claimed to be a resident of Maine and was arrested in New Hampshire. Given a $5 suspended fine, police wrote one word beside the address line on the report—"floater."

New car dealers in the United States declined in numbers from 45,166 to 42,181 between 1953 and 1954.

Today's hand will be familiar to all of my readers who happened to be in Australia 17 years ago. It was part of a set of prepared hands that were meant to test the skill of the Australian players.

If you didn't happen to be there at the time, and if you weren't even in New Zealand, you may want to test yourself here and now at a contract of four spades. It isn't easy to find the right line of play even if you allow yourself a peek at the East-West cards.

West leads the ten of clubs, and you win with the ace. Thus far you haven't made a mistake. You lead a trump to dummy's king, and West's discard reveals the bad news. The correct play is to ruff dummy's remaining club at once. You next cash the top diamonds and get out with a third round of diamonds.

Whoever wins the third diamond (probably West, since there is no advantage in dropping the queen so as to let East win the diamond) must return a heart. Suppose West leads the heart, and dummy's queen is covered by the king. You win with the ace of hearts and return a heart to dummy's jack.

Now you lead a trump from dummy. East should play the jack and you let him hold the trick! This is the second end-play in the same hand. East cannot save himself.

If East leads another trump, you can finesse and draw the last trump. Your remaining diamond is good and you will lose the last trick to the ten of hearts.

If East returns a club instead of a trump, you can discard your losing heart and ruff in dummy. Now you can lead dummy's last trump for a finesse, and you will make 11 tricks instead of only 10.

Give yourself a demerit if you tried the heart finesse after winning the first round of trumps in the dummy. Good defense will then manage to defeat you.

Temper Is Expensive

Detroit (AP)—Detroiter Richard Coker's anger grew with each block he circled. He couldn't find a place to park. And, after all, he'd come downtown to pay off a ticket for illegal parking. Finally he drove smack onto the sidewalk at City Hall, and stormed in to give the mayor a piece of his mind. The mayor was out. So Coker stormed back to the sidewalk—only to find police had towed his car away. That cost him $10 on top of his $3 ticket.

Weeds, Driftwood For Flower Arranging, Says DAR Speaker

Mrs. George Brown was guest speaker at the April meeting of the Junior Committee, Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR, Monday evening, on the making of artistic flower arrangements. She explained the importance of balance, the relationship of color and texture of flowers and container, and the use of other interesting materials in flower arrangements, such as driftwood.

Mrs. Brown told of several methods of drying flowers and suggested certain weeds and garden flowers which make beautiful arrengements. At the conclusion of her talk she arranged a spring bouquet of daffodils, pussy willows and driftwood. She explained that some ingenuity and a lot of patience are needed to pursue this interesting hobby.

Mrs. John Schleede, chairman, presided at the business meeting. Mrs. William Ochs, Regent, initiated Mrs. Barbara C. Smith, and she was welcomed as a new member of the group. An article, "American Traditions" was read by Mrs. Adam H. Porter in the absence of Mrs. J. James Soechting, Chairman of National Defense. Plans for an Easter present for Gloria Pickens, the Tammassee girl, were discussed, and two letters of thanks for previous gifts to her were read.

Mrs. Ochs talked to the group on the responsibilities and privileges of being a member of the DAR, noting the accomplishments of the society at the national and local levels. A nominating committee consisting of Ruth Freidell, Elta Smith and Inez Post, was elected.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Phyllis Smith and Mrs. S. James Matthews.

Shawangunk Garden Club Has Spring Luncheon

Officers of the Shawangunk Garden Club of Ellenville at the spring luncheon at Leherb's Restaurant Tuesday are: seated, left to right, Mrs. Gordon Brown, second vice president; Miss Bertha A. Bennett, guest speaker; Miss Anna T. Henninger, president; and Mrs. William C. Rose, honorary president. Standing are, Mrs. Vincent Roy, program chairman; Miss Mabel Osterhoudt, recording secretary; Mrs. Harold Houghtaling, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Percy Goldsmith, transportation chairman. (Freeman photo)

At the spring luncheon of Shawangunk Garden Club, new officers for the year were announced. They are: Miss Anna T. Henninger, president, Ellenville; Mrs. John Schoonmaker, first vice president, Accord; Mrs. Gordon Brown, second vice president, Napanoch; Miss Mabel Osterhout, recording secretary, Woodbourne; Mrs. Harold Houghtaling, corresponding secretary, Hurleyville; Mrs. William Coombe, treasurer, Ellenville; and Mrs. William C. Rose, honorary president, Ellenville.

Miss Henninger gave a welcoming address to all the members, and called their attention to the cover on the Year Book. This was designed by Mrs. Vincent Roy, program chairman, and features the Shawangunk Mountains, with a robin flying in from the Lake Minnewaska sanctuaries, with scrub pine and mountain laurel prominent in the design.

Mrs. Roy and her committee of Mrs. John L. Hoyman, Mrs. Gordon Brown, Mrs. John Sanderson and Mrs. Everett W. Coty, handprinted all the covers.

Miss Henninger called for a 30-second interval of silence in respect to the memory of the late member, Mrs. Eva Ford Kresge.

Mrs. Brown gave a short resume of her trip to the International Flower Show in New York city, highlighting most attractive exhibits.

Miss Bertha A. Bennett of New Paltz, the guest speaker, was introduced to the group by Miss Henninger, and gave a talk on Old and New Flower Arrangements. Miss Bennett has recently been awarded two certificates, one for a State Arrangements Judge, and one for Horticulture.

Granados Best Known For Piano Selections, Says Mrs. G. W. Ross

Mrs. G. W. Ross presented the program, The Life and Work of Enrique Granados, Spanish composer, at the April 1 meeting of the YWCA Music Appreciation Group. The principal legacy of this talented Spaniard is his large collection of keyboard music, which has won wide popularity with performers.

One of his first compositions was his book of Spanish dances, after which he composed numerous songs and string quartets. The symphonic poems were performed by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra in 1915.

Inspired by the works of Goya in the Prado, he composed two books of piano works called, Goyesca, filled with grace and poetic charm. As the first Spanish opera, it was an unsuccessful Paris production, but met favorable reception at the Metropolitan here.

Granados stayed over to play for Woodrow Wilson at the White House, canceling ship booking for a week. His career was ended in 1916 when the steamship Sussex was torpedoed in the English Channel.

The Spanish National School is progressing, though late in starting. There is a wealth of unpublished Spanish music of the Middle Ages and Renaissance period, indicating that Spain may again rank high as a musical nation.

Recordings selected to be played for the group included Granados Spanish Dances and Goyesca; and Procesion Del Rocio by Turina, another Spanish composer.

After the program, at the home of Mrs. Robert H. Pixley of 75 Roosevelt avenue, a social hour was held. Mrs. Ralph Harper, chairman of the group, presided at the tea.

The next meeting will be April 22 at 2 p. m. with Mrs. Boyd Williams, Pine street. Miss Florence Cordts and Mrs. Richard Morse will be co-hostesses. The program will be given by Mrs. Norman Swibold, on the topic, Finlands' Composer, Jan Sibelius.

Miss Joan Agnes Sickler Becomes Bride Of Airman 2/c David G. Dowsland, Sunday

Miss Joan Agnes Sickler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sickler of 30 Coffey Place, and Airman 2/c David G. Dowsland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dowsland of Schenectady, were married Sunday at 2 p. m. at First Presbyterian Church. The Rev. William McVey performed the double ring ceremony.

Miss Edna Merrihew was organist, and William McVey, Jr. was soloist in the selection, The Lord's Prayer and Because.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white bouffant Chantilly lace over satin fashioned with a lace bodice. Her veil of imported French illusion was gathered to a crown of seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a white orchid on a prayer book.

Miss Colleen Sickler was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a gown of orchid nylon marquisette over taffeta with a lace bodice, and carried a colonial bouquet of yellow carnations.

Miss Carol Lyons, Miss Shirley Gardiner, and Mrs. Howard Hotaling, cousins of the bride, and Miss Audrey Chase, were attendants.

Miss Lyons and Miss Chase wore yellow taffeta gowns styled with nylon marquisette over a lace bodice and carried colonial bouquets of orchid carnations. Miss Gardiner and Mrs. Hotaling wore gowns of mint taffeta of identical style, and carried colonial bouquets of pink carnations.

Miss Karen Dowsland, sister of the bridegroom, as flower girl, wore a frock of blue taffeta and a wreath of forget-me-nots in her hair. Her flowers were pink feathered carnations.

Paul Dowsland of Schenectady, was best man for his brother. Ushers for the occasion were Donald Lyons, Joseph Gardiner and Howard Hotaling all cousins of the bride, and John Glennon.

A reception was held for 75 guests at the Yacht Club, Abeel street. The couple left after the reception for a wedding trip to upper New York state. For traveling, the bride wore a heather blue suit with white accessories.

The bride attended Kingston High School, and is employed at Skyline Manufacturing Co. The bridegroom attended Schenectady High School, and is a graduate of Radio School at Scott Air Force Base, Ill. He has served one year in Korea, and is now stationed at Westover Air Force Base, Mass. The bride will make her home with her parents while A 2/c Dowsland is in service.

RISKING CRITICISM FOR NOTHING

A mother writes me: "Our eighteen-year-old daughter is a freshman in college. She and two of her girl friends date boys who have an apartment in the college town. Occasionally they go to the boys' apartment for a snack, to watch television or to listen to some new records. She doesn't see that such conduct, although innocent, can reflect on her character. Can it be that we are wrong in objecting?"

It is a very definite opportunity for the development of imprudent behavior, and I think there is no question about the wisdom of your objecting to her going.

May Husband Accept for Wife?

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it right for a husband to accept an invitation for himself and his wife? My husband does this constantly and I feel that the hostess should call me and issue the invitation or that we shouldn't go. My husband thinks I stand too much on ceremony.

Answer: A husband does not as a general practice accept invitations for his wife. And when he does, he should accept them only tentatively, saying, "We'd love to come—unless Mary (or my wife) has made an engagement since I left home." (In other words, her acceptance of an engagement would take precedence over his.)

Right Knife Would Help

Dear Mrs. Post: What about eating spare ribs? Isn't it perfectly proper to pick them up and eat them in the fingers? It's practically impossible to eat them otherwise. However, every time I do this my wife makes a big fuss about it and says it is not good table manners. I'm counting on you, Mrs. Post, to convince her that I am right.

Answer: I'm sorry to have to answer that your wife is right. Except at a picnic, you must not pick up spare ribs in your fingers. The awkwardness of eating them with fork and knife would be greatly lessened if you are given a small sharp knife called a "steak" knife.

Are you planning to have some friends for a dinner party and serve without help? Mrs. Post's booklet No. 503, includes details for serving in the simplest manner. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy, send 25 cents in coin to Dept. ER, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

This was designed by Mrs. Vincent Roy, program chairman, and features the Shawangunk Mountains, with a robin flying in from the Lake Minnewaska sanctuaries, with scrub pine and mountain laurel prominent in the design.

Mrs. Roy and her committee of Mrs. John L. Hoyman, Mrs. Gordon Brown, Mrs. John Sanderson and Mrs. Everett W. Coty, handprinted all the covers.

Miss Henninger called for a 30-second interval of silence in respect to the memory of the late member, Mrs. Eva Ford Kresge.

Miss Bertha A. Bennett of New Paltz, the guest speaker, was introduced to the group by Miss Henninger, and gave a talk on Old and New Flower Arrangements. Miss Bennett has recently been awarded two certificates, one for a State Arrangements Judge, and one for Horticulture.

Granados Best Known For Piano Selections, Says Mrs. G. W. Ross

Mrs. G. W. Ross presented the program, The Life and Work of Enrique Granados, Spanish composer, at the April 1 meeting of the YWCA Music Appreciation Group. The principal legacy of this talented Spaniard is his large collection of keyboard music, which has won wide popularity with performers.

One of his first compositions was his book of Spanish dances, after which he composed numerous songs and string quartets. The symphonic poems were performed by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra in 1915.

Inspired by the works of Goya in the Prado, he composed two books of piano works called, Goyesca, filled with grace and poetic charm. As the first Spanish opera, it was an unsuccessful Paris production, but met favorable reception at the Metropolitan here.

Granados stayed over to play for Woodrow Wilson at the White House, canceling ship booking for a week. His career was ended in 1916 when the steamship Sussex was torpedoed in the English Channel.

The Spanish National School is progressing, though late in starting. There is a wealth of unpublished Spanish music of the Middle Ages and Renaissance period, indicating that Spain may again rank high as a musical nation.

Recordings selected to be played for the group included Granados Spanish Dances and Goyesca; and Procesion Del Rocio by Turina, another Spanish composer.

After the program, at the home of Mrs. Robert H. Pixley of 75 Roosevelt avenue, a social hour was held. Mrs. Ralph Harper, chairman of the group, presided at the tea.

The next meeting will be April 22 at 2 p. m. with Mrs. Boyd Williams, Pine street. Miss Florence Cordts and Mrs. Richard Morse will be co-hostesses. The program will be given by Mrs. Norman Swibold, on the topic, Finlands' Composer, Jan Sibelius.

Miss Joan Agnes Sickler Becomes Bride Of Airman 2/c David G. Dowsland, Sunday

Miss Joan Agnes Sickler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sickler of 30 Coffey Place, and Airman 2/c David G. Dowsland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dowsland of Schenectady, were married Sunday at 2 p. m. at First Presbyterian Church. The Rev. William McVey performed the double ring ceremony.

Miss Edna Merrihew was organist, and William McVey, Jr. was soloist in the selection, The Lord's Prayer and Because.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white bouffant Chantilly lace over satin fashioned with a lace bodice. Her veil of imported French illusion was gathered to a crown of seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a white orchid on a prayer book.

Miss Colleen Sickler was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a gown of orchid nylon marquisette over taffeta with a lace bodice, and carried a colonial bouquet of yellow carnations.

Miss Carol Lyons, Miss Shirley Gardiner, and Mrs. Howard Hotaling, cousins of the bride, and Miss Audrey Chase, were attendants.

Miss Lyons and Miss Chase wore yellow taffeta gowns styled with nylon marquisette over a lace bodice and carried colonial bouquets of orchid carnations. Miss Gardiner and Mrs. Hotaling wore gowns of mint taffeta of identical style, and carried colonial bouquets of pink carnations.

Miss Karen Dowsland, sister of the bridegroom, as flower girl, wore a frock of blue taffeta and a wreath of forget-me-nots in her hair. Her flowers were pink feathered carnations.

Paul Dowsland of Schenectady, was best man for his brother. Ushers for the occasion were Donald Lyons, Joseph Gardiner and Howard Hotaling all cousins of the bride, and John Glennon.

A reception was held for 75 guests at the Yacht Club, Abeel street. The couple left after the reception for a wedding trip to upper New York state. For traveling, the bride wore a heather blue suit with white accessories.

The bride attended Kingston High School, and is employed at Skyline Manufacturing Co. The bridegroom attended Schenectady High School, and is a graduate of Radio School at Scott Air Force Base, Ill. He has served one year in Korea, and is now stationed at Westover Air Force Base, Mass. The bride will make her home with her parents while A 2/c Dowsland is in service.

RISKING CRITICISM FOR NOTHING

A mother writes me: "Our eighteen-year-old daughter is a freshman in college. She and two of her girl friends date boys who have an apartment in the college town. Occasionally they go to the boys' apartment for a snack, to watch television or to listen to some new records. She doesn't see that such conduct, although innocent, can reflect on her character. Can it be that we are wrong in objecting?"

It is a very definite opportunity for the development of imprudent behavior, and I think there is no question about the wisdom of your objecting to her going.

May Husband Accept for Wife?

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it right for a husband to accept an invitation for himself and his wife? My husband does this constantly and I feel that the hostess should call me and issue the invitation or that we shouldn't go. My husband thinks I stand too much on ceremony.

Answer: A husband does not as a general practice accept invitations for his wife. And when he does, he should accept them only tentatively, saying, "We'd love to come—unless Mary (or my wife) has made an engagement since I left home." (In other words, her acceptance of an engagement would take precedence over his.)

Right Knife Would Help

Dear Mrs. Post: What about eating spare ribs? Isn't it perfectly proper to pick them up and eat them in the fingers? It's practically impossible to eat them otherwise. However, every time I do this my wife makes a big fuss about it and says it is not good table manners. I'm counting on you, Mrs. Post, to convince her that I am right.

Answer: I'm sorry to have to answer that your wife is right. Except at a picnic, you must not pick up spare ribs in your fingers. The awkwardness of eating them with fork and knife would be greatly lessened if you are given a small sharp knife called a "steak" knife.

Are you planning to have some friends for a dinner party and serve without help? Mrs. Post's booklet No. 503, includes details for serving in the simplest manner. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy, send 25 cents in coin to Dept. ER, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Prisma Society Presents Spring Fashion Show at KHS

Spring Styles Within High School Girl's Price Range Shown

Prisma Society, girls service organization at Kingston High School, presented its annual spring fashion show today in an assembly for all high school girls.

The styles for the milder weather included many colorful cotton dresses both for school and dress wear, with emphasis on the shirt-dress, a fashion which is popular with teens and the college crowd as well. The practical and pretty separates in denim, and a raincoat in blue denim prove the versatility of this well-wearing fabric.

Bermuda shorts in black linen and plaid worn with men's shirts or sweaters are favored for casual wear. Shantungs and silk for date dresses and evening gowns were highlights of the show. All the fashions are well within the price range of the typical high school girl.

Stores participating in the showing were Regina's, Junior Deb, Wonderlys, Barbizon, Goldman's and Rae Barth. Mrs. Frank Pearson assisted the models by showing them how to walk to best display the styles.

The committee planning the fashion show was under the direction of Miss Jeannine Carpenter, chairman, with members the Misses Norma Zang, Gail Dugan, Pat Perry and Claudia Bouchard, president of Prisma Society. Miss Carpenter was also the narrator for the show. Cameron Rylance furnished piano accompaniment.

Faculty advisors were Miss Isabel Malone, Miss Ann Donovan and Mrs. Thelma Schwab.

Modeling for Rae Barth were: the Misses Ann Griffin, Gail Dugan, Linda Mattes, and Betty Petri, all seniors. For Wonderly's: the Misses Florence Casperson, sophomore, Agnes Geary, senior, Marianne Bouchard, senior, Peggy Bruck, junior and Susan Haber, junior.

Modeling for Barbizon were the Misses Nancy Herzog and Joyce La Guardia, sophomores; Miss Sharon Parnett, freshman; and Miss Margaret Danford, junior. For Goldman's, the Misses Mary Ellen Adams, Robin Strongin and Patricia Perry, seniors; Cynthia Haver, junior. For Junior Deb, the Misses Judy Parker and Patricia Van Deusen, freshmen; and the Misses Nancy Ellsworth and Jackie Haulenbeck, juniors.

Regina's models were the Misses Arlita Davis and Faith Gersback, juniors; Miss Debbie Van Wagenen, sophomore, and Miss Faith Gersback, junior.

istration (REA) and 145 millions for the Farmers Home Administration. The REA authorization consists of 100 millions for electrification loans and 75 millions for telephone loans. These loans are self-liquidating.

The Farmers Home Administration makes loans for production and subsistence, land purchase, farm improvements, water supply improvements and emergency purposes.

The 250-million-dollar conservation program recommended by the 1955 crop year includes 55 millions for use only when Congress adopts a program for the use of lands diverted from production in 1955 under crop control programs.

There is an urgent need for such a program, the committee said, to help hold down accumulations of surplus commodities and to assure a productive agriculture to meet the food requirements of the future.

For payments for the 1954 conservation program, the committee recommended $191,700,000, a cut of $3,300,000 from the budget request. It explained that the department will have $3,300,000 in unobligated balances at the end of the program year.

Dealers More Concerned

At this time of the year it is clear that the dealers are more concerned with their accounts receivable than with trends in consumption. The period from Christmas through April 1 apparently is a headache for creditors, with homeowners' ready cash depleted by Christmas expenses and taxed by the many first-of-the-year items, income taxes, household expenses, and other items. It is also the time that many seasonal workers in the area suffer from income-less weeks.

The warmer winter has caused no serious inroads on the fuel companies' total volume of business because the decrease in per capita fuel consumption has been offset in some degree by new installations, dealers contend.

'Hard to Pin Down'

The effect of the weather on fuel business is "hard to pin down," said LeRoy A. Van Bramer, secretary of Austin R. Newcomb & Co., Inc., because of the "big increase in new customers." He pointed out that ever since World War 2 there has been a "tremendous increase" in new installations in the Kingston area.

Larry V. Bogert, president of L. V. Bogert, Inc., indicated that much research would be needed to find the true picture of the fuel business today. Factors which enter in, he pointed out, include the weather, the number of new homes, the varying number of area residents who close up their homes and go to Florida or other southern states for the winter, and others.

Similar thoughts were echoed by C. Robert Cousins of Cousins Fuels, Inc., who also pointed out that there has been an increase in use of fuels of all sorts, for industry as well as home heating.

Increased competition in the heating industry also has an effect, with natural gas becoming an added factor in heating.

With no official records kept outside the city limits, estimates on the number of new homes serviced by local fuel dealers are, at best, good guesses, it was pointed out by Harry Rigby, Jr., since the majority of the new homes are going up in such suburban areas as Sunset Park and Hurley Heights. One estimate, generally accepted as about the most accurate, puts at 700 the number of new dwellings erected in Kingston and its adjacent environs from 1946 to date, Rigby said.

In a much larger area, Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation reported 507 new homes erected last year in the area on the west side of the Hudson north of Highland and south of Ravena. This includes not only Kingston but also the Saugerties and Catskill areas.

Still another factor to be considered is the trend twoard smaller, better insulated homes, with a new home being heated with less fuel than many of the existing homes.

Tax Equalization

ments are invited to attend this meeting on April 21st.

A proposal to change the name of the "Kingston Chamber of Commerce, Inc." to "Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, Inc." will be voted upon. In the notice mailed to all members today a proxy form was included to use in voting on this change recommended by the board of directors. Area development, improved transportation, the express desire from area residents to become members and be represented on committees led the board to take this action.

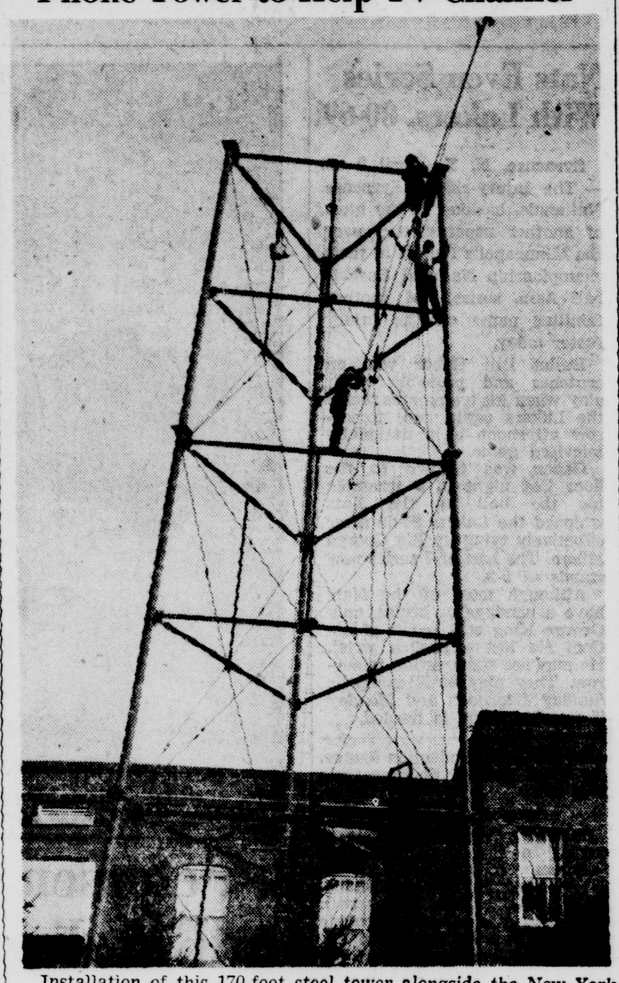
County Vital Factor

Officers and members of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce have long realized that a large portion of the general business activity in Kingston is dependent upon Ulster county. It is now proposed to formally change the name to serve a wider area than Kingston and have area representatives participate in the development and execution of a broader program for the benefit of the entire area.

The annual membership meeting April 21 is the first required under the by-laws as amended last year. The terms of the various Chamber committees expire at this time and new committees appointed or reappointed will be announced and will assume their responsibilities.

Because of the importance of the general question of taxes and to permit ample time for those present to ask questions, the remainder of the business will be kept to a minimum. The Chambers' executive-secretary will be called upon to make a brief summary report on the activities of committees during the past year and the results accomplished.

Phone Tower to Help TV Channel



Installation of this 170-foot steel tower alongside the New York Telephone Company building, 449 Broadway, which will aid in the transmitting of CBS, Channel 2 television programs over Kingston's new TV station, Channel 66, will soon be completed, according to Leonard W. Herrick, local telephone manager. Through this equipment the microwave signals from New York will be reduced to picture signal strength, ready to be transmitted to home television receivers. The video or picture part of a network program is transmitted along the New York-Albany coaxial cable route while the audio, or sound portion, is carried along telephone wires. A 24-hour watch will be kept on testing equipment to insure quality pictures. The local phone company also has placed 500 feet of aerial cable to carry the sound portion of the network TV programs from existing facilities along Route 9W to the Port Ewen station. Work in the central telephone office is being done by employes of the Western Electric Co. (Freeman photo)

U. S. Aid Check

continued, but that the emphasis in the future should be "on the more critical situations" and that aid should be channeled to nations willing to help themselves.

Bridges noted a statement yesterday by Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, suggesting that Congress should wait until after the Geneva conference on Asia, starting April 26, before deciding how much foreign aid to provide North Atlantic Treaty countries.

Knowland said Congress ought to follow such a course inasmuch some European allies have been urging delay on Dulles' "united action" proposals until after the Geneva conference.

Bridges said he believes Knowland "stuck a note that met a responsive chord" so far as "a large group in the Senate of both political parties" is concerned.

Bridges commented that the U. S. foreign aid program is described as a mutual assistance program, and added that the emphasis should be on the word "mutual."

He added by that he meant that America's allies should be willing to cooperate in programs to halt Communist aggression.

British and French diplomats are reported disinclined to, go along with the U. S. proposal for a united front in southeast Asia until they see what comes out of the Geneva meeting with representatives of Red China and Russia.

Craig said he started to back up to get out of the space and Mrs. Abernethy got from a bus, walked between his car and another, and was struck. She suffered injuries of the left leg above and below the knee, he said, and was taken to a doctor for treatment.

B-26 Bomber Crashes

Seoul, April 9 (AP)—The U. S. 5th Air Force said today one of its B-26 bombers crashed Tuesday night off the west coast of Korea and its four man crew was missing. All names were withheld.

tary training plane in which 37 persons were killed.

Mayor L. E. Lewry called a special meeting of the city council to renew protests against student flights from the nearby Royal Canadian Air Force Base over this city of 25,000.

The dead included 31 passengers and a crew of four in the westbound airliner; a British RAF pilot training here under a NATO program, and a cleaning woman who died in the wreckage of a house struck by the airliner's flaming debris. There were no survivors.

As it hurtled to the ground in flames, the big four-engine North Star came within 100 feet of a school where 350 children were in classes.

A garage was utilized as a temporary morgue but early today only 18 of the 37 burned and broken bodies had been identified.

Among the dead passengers were Rodney Adamson, 52, a leading progressive Conservative member of Parliament; Pat Reid, 58, famous Northland bush pilot and oil company executive; George Sweny, president of the Vancouver Iron Works, and their wives.

The collision occurred in midmorning as the airliner, delayed 7½ hours by weather on its flight from Montreal to Vancouver, was flying west above the city. Witnesses said the single-engine Harvard trainer crashed into the larger plane from the southwest sheering off a wing from the airliner. The trainer fell directly to the ground while the North Star went into a spin at a sharp angle, trailing fire from its tail.

Spring Styles Within High School Girl's Price Range Shown

Prisma Society, girls service organization at Kingston High School, presented its annual spring fashion show today in an assembly for all high school girls.

The styles for the milder weather included many colorful cotton dresses both for school and dress wear, with emphasis on the shirt-dress, a fashion which is popular with teens and the college crowd as well. The practical and pretty separates in denim, and a raincoat in blue denim prove the versatility of this well-wearing fabric.

Bermuda shorts in black linen and plaid worn with men's shirts or sweaters are favored for casual wear. Shantungs and silk for date dresses and evening gowns were highlights of the show. All the fashions are well within the price range of the typical high school girl.

Stores participating in the showing were Regina's, Junior Deb, Wonderly's, Barbizon, Goldman's and Rae Barth. Mrs. Frank Pearson assisted the models by showing them how to walk to best display the styles.

The committee planning the fashion show was under the direction of Miss Jeannine Carpenter, chairman, with members the Misses Norma Zang, Gail Dugan, Pat Perry and Claudia Bouchard, president of Prisma Society. Miss Carpenter was also the narrator for the show. Cameron Rylance furnished piano accompaniment.

Faculty advisors were Miss Isabel Malone, Miss Ann Donovan and Mrs. Thelma Schwab.

Modeling for Rae Barth were: the Misses Ann Griffin, Gail Dugan, Linda Mattes, and Betty Petri, all seniors. For Wonderly's: the Misses Florence Casperson, sophomore, Agnes Geary, senior, Marianne Bouchard, senior, Peggy Bruck, junior and Susan Haber, junior.

Modeling for Barbizon were the Misses Nancy Herzog and Joyce La Guardia, sophomores; Miss Sharon Parnett, freshman; and Miss Margaret Danford, junior. For Goldman's, the Misses Mary Ellen Adams, Robin Strongin and Patricia Perry, seniors; Cynthia Haver, junior. For Junior Deb, the Misses Judy Parker and Patricia Van Deusen, freshmen; and the Misses Nancy Ellsworth and Jackie Haulenbeck, juniors.

Regina's models were the Misses Arlita Davis and Faith Gersback, juniors; Miss Debbie Van Wagenen, sophomore, and Miss Faith Gersback, junior.

Benson Accused

istration (REA) and 145 millions for the Farmers Home Administration. The REA authorization consists of 100 millions for electrification loans and 75 millions for telephone loans. These loans are self-liquidating.

The Farmers Home Administration makes loans for production and subsistence, land purchase, farm improvements, water supply improvements and emergency purposes.

The 250-million-dollar conservation program recommended by the 1955 crop year includes 55 millions for use only when Congress adopts a program for the use of lands diverted from production in 1955 under crop control programs.

There is an urgent need for such a program, the committee said, to help hold down accumulations of surplus commodities and to assure a productive agriculture to meet the food requirements of the future.

For payments for the 1954 conservation program, the committee recommended $191,700,000, a cut of $3,300,000 from the budget request. It explained that the department will have $3,300,000 in unobligated balances at the end of the program year.

Homeowners' . . .

qualified answer from any dealer contacted.

Dealers More Concerned

At this time of the year it is clear that the dealers are more concerned with their accounts receivable than with trends in consumption. The period from Christmas through April 1 apparently is a headache for creditors, with homeowners' ready cash depleted by Christmas expenses and taxed by the many first-of-the-year items, income taxes, household expenses, and other items. It is also the time that many seasonal workers in the area suffer from income-less weeks.

The warmer winter has caused no serious inroads on the fuel companies' total volume of business because the decrease in per capita fuel consumption has been offset in some degree by new installations, dealers contend.

'Hard to Pin Down'

The effect of the weather on fuel business is "hard to pin down," said LeRoy A. Van Bramer, secretary of Austin R. Newcomb & Co., Inc., because of the "big increase in new customers." He pointed out that ever since World War 2 there has been a "tremendous increase" in new installations in the Kingston area.

Larry V. Bogert, president of L. V. Bogert, Inc., indicated that much research would be needed to find the true picture of the fuel business today. Factors which enter in, he pointed out, include the weather, the number of new homes, the varying number of area residents who close up their homes and go to Florida or other southern states for the winter, and others.

Similar thoughts were echoed by C. Robert Cousins of Cousins Fuels, Inc., who also pointed out that there has been an increase in use of fuels of all sorts, for industry as well as home heating.

Increased competition in the heating industry also has an effect, with natural gas becoming an added factor in heating.

With no official records kept outside the city limits, estimates on the number of new homes serviced by local fuel dealers are, at best, good guesses, it was pointed out by Harry Rigby, Jr., since the majority of the new homes are going up in such suburban areas as Sunset Park and Hurley Heights. One estimate, generally accepted as about the most accurate, puts at 700 the number of new dwellings erected in Kingston and its adjacent environs from 1946 to date, Rigby said.

In a much larger area, Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation reported 507 new homes erected last year in the area on the west side of the Hudson north of Highland and south of Ravena. This includes not only Kingston but also the Saugerties and Catskill areas.

Still another factor to be considered is the trend twoard smaller, better insulated homes, with a new home being heated with less fuel than many of the existing homes.

Tax Equalization

ments are invited to attend this meeting on April 21st.

A proposal to change the name of the "Kingston Chamber of Commerce, Inc." to "Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, Inc." will be voted upon. In the notice mailed to all members today a proxy form was included to use in voting on this change recommended by the board of directors. Area development, improved transportation, the express desire from area residents to become members and be represented on committees led the board to take this action.

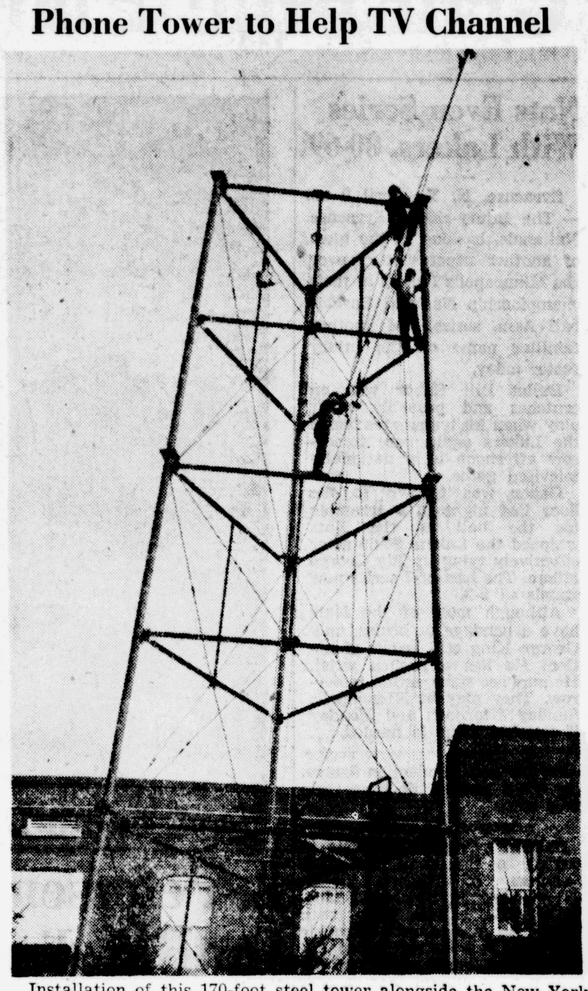
County Vital Factor

Officers and members of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce have long realized that a large portion of the general business activity in Kingston is dependent upon Ulster county. It is now proposed to formally change the name to serve a wider area than Kingston and have area representatives participate in the development and execution of a broader program for the benefit of the entire area.

The annual membership meeting April 21 is the first required under the by-laws as amended last year. The terms of the various Chamber committees expire at this time and new committees appointed or reappointed will be announced and will assume their responsibilities.

Because of the importance of the general question of taxes and to permit ample time for those present to ask questions, the remainder of the business will be kept to a minimum. The Chambers' executive-secretary will be called upon to make a brief summary report on the activities of committees during the past year and the results accomplished.

Phone Tower to Help TV Channel



Installation of this 170-foot steel tower alongside the New York Telephone Company building, 449 Broadway, which will aid in the transmitting of CBS, Channel 2 television programs over Kingston's new TV station, Channel 66, will soon be completed, according to Leonard W. Herrick, local telephone manager. Through this equipment the microwave signals from New York will be reduced to picture signal strength, ready to be transmitted to home television receivers. The video or picture part of a network program is transmitted along the New York-Albany coaxial cable route while the audio, or sound portion, is carried along telephone wires. A 24-hour watch will be kept on testing equipment to insure quality pictures. The local phone company also has placed 500 feet of aerial cable to carry the sound portion of the network TV programs from existing facilities along Route 9W to the Port Ewen station. Work in the central telephone office is being done by employes of the Western Electric Co. (Freeman photo)

U. S. Aid Check

continued, but that the emphasis in the future should be "on the more critical situations" and that aid should be channeled to nations willing to help themselves.

Bridges noted a statement yesterday by Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, suggesting that Congress should wait until after the Geneva conference on Asia, starting April 26, before deciding how much foreign aid to provide North Atlantic Treaty countries.

Knowland said Congress ought to follow such a course inasmuch some European allies have been urging delay on Dulles' "united action" proposals until after the Geneva conference.

Bridges said he believes Knowland "stuck a note that met a responsive chord" so far as "a large group in the Senate of both political parties" is concerned.

Bridges commented that the U. S. foreign aid program is described as a mutual assistance program, and added that the emphasis should be on the word "mutual."

He added by that he meant that America's allies should be willing to cooperate in programs to halt Communist aggression.

British and French diplomats are reported disinclined to go along with the U. S. proposal for a united front in southeast Asia until they see what comes out of the Geneva meeting with representatives of Red China and Russia.

Reports Woman Injured

Joseph Craig, of 88 Washington avenue, reported to the police that Mrs. William Abernethy, of 139 Pearl street, was slightly injured in a mishap as he was pulling from a parking space near the Governor Clinton Hotel at about 11:05 p. m., yesterday. Craig said he started to back up to get out of the space and Mrs. Abernethy got from a bus, walked between his car and another, and was struck. She suffered injuries of the left leg above and below the knee, he said, and was taken to a doctor for treatment.

The surprise prosecution witness was a resident of Salem at the time of the robbery and was connected with Horsemen Magazine with offices in Danvers. He now is a sales and reservation clerk for American Airlines in New York.

After his testimony O'Leary left the courtroom with FBI men and the all-male jury was ordered locked up for the duration of the trial.

B-26 Bomber Crashes

Seoul, April 9 (AP)—The U. S. 5th Air Force said today one of its B-26 bombers crashed Tuesday night off the west coast of Korea and its four man crew was missing. All names were withheld.

21 Persons . . .

tary training plane in which 37 persons were killed.

Mayor L. E. Lewry called a special meeting of the city council to renew protests against student flights from the nearby Royal Canadian Air Force Base over this city of 25,000.

The dead included 31 passengers and a crew of four in the westbound airliner; a British RAF pilot training here under a NATO program, and a cleaning woman who died in the wreckage of a house struck by the airliner's flaming debris. There were no survivors.

As it hurtled to the ground in flames, the big four-engine North Star came within 100 feet of a school where 350 children were in classes.

A garage was utilized as a temporary morgue but early today only 18 of the 37 burned and broken bodies had been identified.

Among the dead passengers were Rodney Adamson, 52, a leading progressive Conservative member of Parliament; Pat Reid, 58, famous Northland bush pilot and oil company executive; George Sweny, president of the Vancouver Iron Works, and their wives.

The collision occurred in midmorning as the airliner, delayed 7½ hours by weather on its flight from Montreal to Vancouver, was flying west above the city. Witnesses said the single-engine Harvard trainer crashed into the larger plane from the southwest sheering off a wing from the airliner. The trainer fell directly to the ground while the North Star went into a spin at a sharp angle, trailing fire from its tail.

Haber's Grill-Pine Plains Tournament Finals Set for Tonight

Contest Is Old Story of Speed Vs. Experience

Otisville-MacAuleys In Consolation Game

Haber's Grill meets the powerful Pine Plains Bombardiers in the finals of the Kingston basketball tournament tonight at 8:45 at the municipal auditorium.

Poughkeepsie MacAuleys and Otisville Merchants clash at 7:30 p. m., to decide third and fourth place.

It will be the old story of youth against experience in the showdown that is expected to attract the tournament's largest turnout.

Haber's Grill has the tournament's most sensational performer in Bill Haber, who will need all the help he can get from teammates Skip Brodhead, Dick Bezemer, Jim Riehl.

Pine Plains, a seasoned, sharpshooting outfit has a brilliant first five in Johnny Cottrill, Don Myers, Harry Hahn and Maury Fumasoli, who dribbles faster than any player in the tourney.

The game will be decided under the boards where the pressure is heaviest against the high school wizards. Myers, Cottrill and Spencer figure to give the Bombardiers the edge in that vital department, but the Haber spirit is a factor that cannot be discounted.

Hits 64 Points

Haber has been the scoring revelation with 64 points in three outings. Brodhead has scored 57 and Dick Bezemer hit 45 which is below his usual production figures. The Grills need a lift from their pivot star.

Average 87 Points

Haber's averaged 87 points in moving to the finals, defeating Ericksons of Hudson, 87-58; Harry's Angel's, 88-77 and MacAuleys 86-81. The game with MacAuleys was a grim struggle until big Don Basten fouled out early in the fourth period and the Bridge City quintet lost control of the boards.

Johnny Cottrill is the Pine Plains scoring leader with 49 points in two games. The Bombardiers whipped Fishkill, 83-70, in the opener; then scored a key victory over Sickler's Delivery, 68-59, before tripping the flashy Otisville combine, 97-84, with a terrific second half.

Otisville figures to have too much staying power for MacAuleys in the consolation game.

The probable lineups:

Haber's Grill		Pine Plains
Skip Brodhead	F	Bob Martin
John Godwin	F	John Cottrill
Dick Bezemer	C	Don Myers
Jim Riehl	G	Harry Hahn
Bill Haber	G	M. Fumasoli

Marlene Bauer of Sarasota, Fla., and Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., shared the runnerup spot with 73s.

Nats Even Series With Lakers, 80-69

Syracuse, N. Y., April 9 (AP) — The injury-ridden Syracuse Nationals, basking in the glow of another uspet victory over the Minneapolis Lakers in their championship National Basketball Assn. series, had another familiar name on the injury roster today.

Bullet Bill Gabor was on crutches and probably won't play when his teammates tackle the Lakers again here tomorrow afternoon in a nationally televised game.

Gabor was thrown to the floor last night in a scramble for the ball as the Nats whipped the Lakers 80-69 after effectively tying up Big George Mikan. The best-of-7 series now stands at 2-2.

Although most of the Nats have a bandage or bruise, only George King still is out of action. He has a broken wrist. He may see some action tomorrow. They play at Minneapolis Sunday afternoon and Monday if another game is needed.

Trout Fishermen Will Be Favored With Good Weather, Clear Streams

The ever increasing horde of trout fishermen is expected to find favorite area streams running lower than usual but weather conditions more favorable than in the past several years of the statewide opening at one minute past midnight tonight.

Bill Goodman, of the local Conservation Department office, said the streams range "from normal to lower than usual" with the Ashokan reservoir at its lowest ebb in history for this time of the season.

The eager anglers will find streams heavily stocked and he predicted the lowly worm and garden hackle would produce the best results. There is another school of thought equally consigned to fly fishing.

The Esopus and its tributaries have been stocked with nearly 145,000 trout from the west basin of the Shokan to the portal. The stocking included 10,240 Brook yearlings, 80,775 Brown yearlings, 50,750 Brook; 2,000 two-year old Browns ranging from 8 to 14 inches.

The creel limit stays at 10 with a minimum of seven inches. The limit in the Ashokan is three in the aggregate.

Early weather reports are favorable. The forecast is increasing cloudiness ad warmer, Saturday, with temperatures in the 60s. Showers are expected late Saturday or early Sunday.

Good For Flies

Dick Kahil, who operates Rainbow Lodge, a trouters' haunt at Mt. Tremper, predicts "a fly fisherman's opening," if the present weather holds up.

He corroborated Bill Goodman's predictions of "good conditions" and said the water temperatures would range from 48 to 53 degrees with most streams clear but low. This is a considerable improvement over the chill, rain and freezing temperatures that greeted the Izaak Waltons last year.

The Esopus is clear above the portal at Allaben but cloudy below. He believes the portal will remain open for some time as the Ashokan is less than three quarters full.

Other streams in the area, including the Little Beaverkill at Mt. Tremper, the Woodland Valley, Chichester, Silver Hollow and Bushnellville are all in good shape, but low.

The upper Delaware is reported "perfect." It is clear, not too high and looks good for opening day.

Day-Bomar Lead ABC

Seattle, April 9 (AP)—Chicago and Buffalo bowlers provided the prime action in the 20th day of the American Bowling Congress yesterday, knocking off first position in doubles standings and second position in the open team division.

Ned Day (714) and Buddy Bomar (612) of Chicago piled up a 1326 total good for the doubles lead.

Then, the Simon Pure Beer and Ale team of Buffalo waltzed into second place in the open team competition with a 3133 total. Their high pin mark, eighth best in ABC history, was produced on three "1000"' games of 1014, 1017 and 1102.

The Simon Pure's are 93 pins behind the tournament high tally of 3226 scored by Tri-Par Radio of Chicago, the division leaders.

Sixth place on the doubles ladder went to the Chicago team of Stan Thadden and Bill Lillard with a 1266 score.

The only other change saw Lillard win fourth place in all-events with a 1916 pin fall.

Meanwhile, ABC officials announced the selection of Rochester, N. Y., as the site of the 1956 Bowling Congress. Fort Wayne, Ind., previously had been chosen for next year's tournament.

Chicagoan Leads ABC All-Events

Seattle, April 8 (AP)—Carmen Salvino, 20-year-old bowling instructor from Chicago, took over first place in the all-events standings of the American Bowling Congress last night with a total of 1,935.

He added a 611 in doubles play and 626 in singles to a 698 he had rolled previously in team competition. Tony Lindemann of Detroit had occupied the throne room since April 1 with 1,926.

Two other new names were added to the all-events top 10 listings. Joe Wilman of Berwin, Ill., a three-time ABC champion, took fifth with 1,906 and Lou Vitalich of Seattle occupied seventh on a 1,900.

The Tri-Par Radio team of Chicago rolled into first place in the team all-events, replacing Strohs Beer of Detroit. The Chicagoans tallied 9,224, topping the Beermen's April 1 score by eight points.

In the doubles, Count Kronfield and Clyde Churchill of Seattle teamed up for a fourth place 1,276; Salvino and his partner Wilman, took eighth with 1,255, and Frisco Burnett, Tacoma, and Bill Blanks, Seattle, tallied 1,251, good for tenth in the revised lineup.

Haber's Grill-Pine Plains Tournament Finals Set for Tonight

Contest Is Old Story of Speed Vs. Experience

Otisville-MacAuleys In Consolation Game

Haber's Grill meets the powerful Pine Plains Bombardiers in the finals of the Kingston basketball tournament tonight at 8:45 at the municipal auditorium.

Poughkeepsie MacAuleys and Otisville Merchants clash at 7:30 p. m., to decide third and fourth place.

It will be the old story of youth against experience in the showdown that is expected to attract the tournament's largest turnout.

Haber's Grill has the tournament's most sensational performer in Bill Haber, who will need all the help he can get from teammates Skip Brodhead, Dick Bezemer, Jim Riehl.

Pine Plains, a seasoned, sharpshooting outfit has a brilliant first five in Johnny Cottrill, Don Myers, Harry Hahn and Maury Fumasoli, who dribbles faster than any player in the tourney.

The game will be decided under the boards where the pressure is heaviest against the high school wizards. Myers, Cottrill and Spencer figure to give the Bombardiers the edge in that vital department, but the Haber spirit is a factor that cannot be discounted.

Hits 64 Points

Haber has been the scoring revelation with 64 points in three outings. Brodhead has scored 57 and Dick Bezemer hit 45 which is below his usual production figures. The Grills need a lift from their pivot star.

Average 87 Points

Haber's averaged 87 points in moving to the finals, defeating Ericksons of Hudson, 87-58; Harry's Angel's, 88-77 and MacAuleys 86-81. The game with MacAuleys was a grim struggle until big Don Basten fouled out early in the fourth period and the Bridge City quintet lost control of the boards.

Johnny Cottrill is the Pine Plains scoring leader with 49 points in two games. The Bombardiers whipped Fishkill, 83-70, in the opener; then scored a key victory over Sickler's Delivery, 68-59, before tripping the flashy Otisville combine, 97-84, with a terrific second half.

Otisville figures to have too much staying power for MacAuleys in the consolation game.

The probable lineups:

Haber's Grill		Pine Plains
Skip Brodhead	F	Bob Martin
John Godwin	F	John Cottrill
Dick Bezemer	C	Don Myers
Jim Riehl	G	Harry Hahn
Bill Haber	G	M. Fumasoli

Nats Even Series With Lakers, 80-69

Syracuse, N. Y., April 9 (AP) — The injury-ridden Syracuse Nationals, basking in the glow of another uspet victory over the Minneapolis Lakers in their championship National Basketball Assn. series, had another familiar name on the injury roster today.

Bullet Bill Gabor was on crutches and probably won't play when his teammates tackle the Lakers again here tomorrow afternoon in a nationally televised game.

Gabor was thrown to the floor last night in a scramble for the ball as the Nats whipped the Lakers 80-69 after effectively tying up Big George Mikan. The best-of-7 series now stands at 2-2.

Although most of the Nats have a bandage or bruise, only George King still is out of action. He has a broken wrist. He may see some action tomorrow. They play at Minneapolis Sunday afternoon and Monday if another game is needed.

Babe One Up

New Orleans, April 9 (AP)—Mrs. Babe Zaharias guarded a one stroke lead today in the $5,000 Colonial Country Club's Women's Open golf tournament. She came in with a three under par 72 yesterday in the first round of the four-day event over the sprawling 6,330-yard par 75 course. Marlene Bauer of Sarasota, Fla., and Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., shared the runnerup spot with 73s.

Another old pro, Dot Rawding, rattled the Central Rec women's timbers for a 609 smash on solos of 220, 204 and 185. Chrissie Wilson had a 238 single.

Trout Fishermen Will Be Favored With Good Weather, Clear Streams

The ever increasing horde of trout fishermen is expected to find favorite area streams running lower than usual but weather conditions more favorable than in the past several years of the statewide opening at one minute past midnight tonight.

Bill Goodman, of the local Conservation Department office, said the streams range "from normal to lower than usual" with the Ashokan reservoir at its lowest ebb in history for this time of the season.

The eager anglers will find streams heavily stocked and he predicted the lowly worm and garden hackle would produce the best results. There is another school of thought equally consigned to fly fishing.

The Esopus and its tributaries have been stocked with nearly 145,000 trout from the west basin of the Shokan to the portal. The stocking included 10,240 Brook yearlings, 80,775 Brown yearlings, 50,750 Brook; 2,000 two-year old Browns ranging from 8 to 14 inches.

The creel limit stays at 10 with a minimum of seven inches. The limit in the Ashokan is three in the aggregate.

Early weather reports are favorable. The forecast is increasing cloudiness ad warmer, Saturday, with temperatures in the 60s. Showers are expected late Saturday or early Sunday.

Good For Flies

Dick Kahil, who operates Rainbow Lodge, a trouters' haunt at Mt. Tremper, predicts "a fly fisherman's opening," if the present weather holds up.

He corroborated Bill Goodman's predictions of "good conditions" and said the water temperatures would range from 48 to 53 degrees with most streams clear but low. This is a considerable improvement over the chill, rain and freezing temperatures that greeted the Izaak Waltons last year.

The Esopus is clear above the portal at Allaben but cloudy below. He believes the portal will remain open for some time as the Ashokan is less than three quarters full.

Other streams in the area, including the Little Beaverkill at Mt. Tremper, the Woodland Valley, Chichester, Silver Hollow and Bushnellville are all in good shape, but low.

The upper Delaware is reported "perfect." It is clear, not too high and looks good for opening day.

Patton and Harrison Lead Masters With 70

Augusta, Ga., April 9 (AP)—With 23 golfers clustered within four strokes of each other, the 18th Masters golf championship still was a wide open scramble going into today's second round.

Billy Joe Patton, an amateur who usually is too busy selling lumber to play in tournaments, and Dutch Harrison, who hits the money trail whenever his aching back will let him, were tied for the lead with two-under-par 70s.

Only one stroke back were Lloyd Mangrum and Jack Burke, Jr., defending champion Ben Hogan and top money winner Dave Douglas were another shot to the rear with par 72s.

Ten other players were only three strokes off the pace of the surprise first-round leaders, and seven more had 74s. It was one of the most closely grouped fields in Masters history.

Patton, a Morgantown, N. C., father of three whose greatest claim to fame previously was his 1950 Carolinas Open victory, used superb putting to put together the finest nine-hole score of the day, a 32 on the front side. Par is 36-36—72.

The happy lumberman with the close-cropped hair and the spectacles canned putts of 8, 15, 18 and 20 feet for birdies going out for his four-under-par score.

Patton completed his tour of the hilly Augusta National course long before a cloudburst swept the layout. But Harrison, at 44 Patton's senior by 13 years, trudged five holes in the drenching rain, seemingly undisturbed.

An eagle three on the long, downhill second hole helped him to a 34 going out and he came back in par 36 despite the storm.

The rain bothered Vic Ghezzi and Lew Worsham, both of whom were within easy striking distance of Patton's 70 at the turn. After going out in 33, Ghezzi soared to a 40 on the back nine.

Worsham, of wedge shot fame, was out in 34 but had to settle for 40 coming in after a disasterous eight on the 13th. Lew muffed an easy approach shot, plopping the ball into a creek, and then three-putted.

Wings Gain 2-1 Lead in Series

Montreal, April 9 (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings, winners of the pivotal third game which gave them a 2-1 lead over Montreal in the final Stanley Cup series, were a confident, cocky crew today, but their enthusiasm was tempered somewhat by Coach Tommy Ivan.

"Sure, we won a big one," Ivan observed, "but tomorrow night's game (here) is even bigger. Don't forget that the Canadiens were without two important players—Doug Harvey and Jean Beliveau."

While Harvey, a standout defenseman, and Beliveau, a formidable rookie, sat on the side lines with injuries last night,, Alex Delvecchio and Ted Lindsay shot Detroit into a two-goal lead in the first period and the Wings went on to score a 5-2 victory.

All-Star Coaches

Chicago, April 9 (AP)—A six-man coaching staff for the college all-star football squad was completed today with the naming of Northwestern's Bob Voigts and Purdue's Stu Holcomb as assistants to head coach Jim Tatum of Maryland. Others previously named for the staff were Bud Wilkinson of Okklahoma, Chuck Taylor of Stanford and Forest Evashevski of Iowa.

The Milwaukee Braves come home today to find out whether the sophomore jinx hits ball clubs as well as ball players.

The Milwaukee atmosphere is bound to be slightly changed this season even though the good people of Wisconsin beat down the box office doors during the winter to buy a record number of advance tickets.

Last year the mere idea of seeing real live major league ball players, even members of a team that wallowed in seventh place the previous season, drove Milwaukee residents into ecstasy.

The enthusiasm was contagious. The Braves put up a real pennant scrap and finished second.

But this time around the fans probably will be expecting a little bit more. The players still will be idolized but there may well be some mutterings in the city's best known beverage if the Braves falter in the flag chase.

The Braves return to Milwaukee for a three game series with their former city rivals, the Boston Red Sox. The Sox had whipped them four times this spring but some of the Milwaukee excitement seeped south to Louisville, Ky., yesterday and Charley Grimm's men whipped the Bostonians 5-3.

Two encouraging factors in the victory were Eddie Mathews' eighth spring home run (he will have to hit a lot this summer) and Bob Buhl's nine inning mound stint. Buhl, a real find in his first big league season, also will be fighting the elusive jinx that is supposed to dog players in their second year in the majors. A lot of rookie sensations never duplicate their first year success. Like Buhl, the new Braves still are to be tested.

Dodgers Whip Nats

The Dodgers wound up a two night stay in Washington last night with a 6-2 triumph over the Senators. The Yankees won over Richmond's new International League team 7-2 before a rain-drenched crowd of more than 16,000.

In other exhibition games yesterday Cincinnati defeated Detroit 4-1, the St. Louis Cardinal bowed to the Chicago White Sox 5-2 and the Philadelphia Phillies defeated Schenectady of the Eastern League 7-5. Cleveland and the New York Giants were rained out at Chattanooga. So were Pittsburgh and the Philadelphia Athletics at Savannah, Ga.

The Cardinal-White Sox game marked the first time Negro players had teamed with and against white players in Memphis. Minnie Minoso started for Chicago and Bob Boyd, a Negro player who lives in Memphis, got into the game for the White Sox in the late innings. There was no demonstration of any kind from the crowd of 11,000.

Ferris Fain broke a 1-1 tie with a home run in the eighth inning to put Chicago ahead to stay.

Rosi-Compo Bout Tonight at Garden

New York, April 9 (AP)—Paoli Rosi, a new face from Italy with five straight American victories, tops tonight's St. Nicholas Arena boxing show against Eddie Compo, seasoned New Haven, Conn., lightweight with 84 pro fights.

The 10-round bout, a rematch of a Madison Square Garden semi-final of last Dec. 18 will be given the usual Friday network radio (ABC) and television (NBC) treatment at 10 p. m. (EST). Rosi won the first match.

Variety Trap Shoot Planned by Sportsmen

Woodstock, April 8—A variety trap shoot was planned at the regular monthly meeting of the Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club Wednesday night for Sunday, May 9, at 1 p. m., at the club. The suggestion was made by Aaron Van De Bogart that in addition to the trap shoot, a rubber tire be suspended between pullies, with a paper pie plate in the center as the target. There will be a ten-foot space between posts in which to shoot. Serving on the committee for the new arrangement will be Dick Whalen, Bob Holsapple, Ben DeGraff and Harry Ostrander.

The committee for procuring shells and targets for the shoot is Everand Short and Arthur Barone.

A cafeteria will be set up by the auxiliary of the club to provide food for the contestants. Prizes will be awarded which are suitable to the fishing season.

Dick Whalen and Ben DeGraff have been designated as a committee to secure spare parts for the new trap.

In preparation for the installation of a new floor in the club house, Lester Shultis has been authorized to order 2,000 feet of flooring for the purpose.

Harry Ostrander's offer of the moosehead, which he shot in Canada last fall, has been accepted by the club. It was suggested that this moosehead and another one, already located at the club, shot by Nelson Shultis, be mounted at the west end of the clubroom to avoid being discolored by smoke from the fireplace.

Plans were also made for a square and round dance to be held at the club, Saturday, April 10, beginning at 8:30 p. m.

Pressure on Braves to Produce Pennant Threat at Milwaukee

Patton and Harrison Lead Masters With 70

Augusta, Ga., April 9 (AP)—With 23 golfers clustered within four strokes of each other, the 18th Masters golf championship still was a wide open scramble going into today's second round.

Billy Joe Patton, an amateur who usually is too busy selling lumber to play in tournaments, and Dutch Harrison, who hits the money trail whenever his aching back will let him, were tied for the lead with two-under-par 70s.

Only one stroke back were Lloyd Mangrum and Jack Burke, Jr., defending champion Ben Hogan and top money winner Dave Douglas were another shot to the rear with par 72s.

Ten other players were only three strokes off the pace of the surprise first-round leaders, and seven more had 74s. It was one of the most closely grouped fields in Masters history.

Patton, a Morgantown, N. C., father of three whose greatest claim to fame previously was his 1950 Carolinas Open victory, used superb putting to put together the finest nine-hole score of the day, a 32 on the front side. Par is 36-36—72.

The happy lumberman with the close-cropped hair and the spectacles canned putts of 8, 15, 18 and 20 feet for birdies going out for his four-under-par score.

Patton completed his tour of the hilly Augusta National course long before a cloudburst swept the layout. But Harrison, at 44 Patton's senior by 13 years, trudged five holes in the drenching rain, seemingly undisturbed.

An eagle three on the long, downhill second hole helped him to a 34 going out and he came back in par 36 despite the storm.

The rain bothered Vic Ghezzi and Lew Worsham, both of whom were within easy striking distance of Patton's 70 at the turn. After going out in 33, Ghezzi soared to a 40 on the back nine.

Worsham, of wedge shot fame, was out in 34 but had to settle for 40 coming in after a disasterous eight on the 13th. Lew muffed an easy approach shot, plopping the ball into a creek, and then three-putted.

Wings Gain 2-1 Lead in Series

Montreal, April 9 (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings, winners of the pivotal third game which gave them a 2-1 lead over Montreal in the final Stanley Cup series, were a confident, cocky crew today, but their enthusiasm was tempered somewhat by Coach Tommy Ivan.

"Sure, we won a big one," Ivan observed, "but tomorrow night's game (here) is even bigger. Don't forget that the Canadiens were without two important players—Doug Harvey and Jean Beliveau."

While Harvey, a standout defenseman, and Beliveau, a formidable rookie, sat on the side lines with injuries last night,, Alex Delvecchio and Ted Lindsay shot Detroit into a two-goal lead in the first period and the Wings went on to score a 5-2 victory.

All-Star Coaches

Chicago, April 9 (AP)—A six-man coaching staff for the college all-star football squad was completed today with the naming of Northwestern's Bob Voigts and Purdue's Stu Holcomb as assistants to head coach Jim Tatum of Maryland. Others previously named for the staff were Bud Wilkinson of Okklahoma, Chuck Taylor of Stanford and Forest Evashevski of Iowa.

The Milwaukee Braves come home today to find out whether the sophomore jinx hits ball clubs as well as ball players.

The Milwaukee atmosphere is bound to be slightly changed this season even though the good people of Wisconsin beat down the box office doors during the winter to buy a record number of advance tickets.

Last year the mere idea of seeing real live major league ball players, even members of a team that wallowed in seventh place the previous season, drove Milwaukee residents into ecstasy.

The enthusiasm was contagious. The Braves put up a real pennant scrap and finished second.

But this time around the fans probably will be expecting a little bit more. The players still will be idolized but there may well be some mutterings in the city's best known beverage if the Braves falter in the flag chase.

The Braves return to Milwaukee for a three game series with their former city rivals, the Boston Red Sox. The Sox had whipped them four times this spring but some of the Milwaukee excitement seeped south to Louisville, Ky., yesterday and Charley Grimm's men whipped the Bostonians 5-3.

Two encouraging factors in the victory were Eddie Mathews' eighth spring home run (he will have to hit a lot this summer) and Bob Buhl's nine inning mound stint. Buhl, a real find in his first big league season, also will be fighting the elusive jinx that is supposed to dog players in their second year in the majors. A lot of rookie sensations never duplicate their first year success. Like Buhl, the new Braves still are to be tested.

Dodgers Whip Nats

The Dodgers wound up a two night stay in Washington last night with a 6-2 triumph over the Senators. The Yankees won over Richmond's new International League team 7-2 before a raindrenched crowd of more than 16,000.

In other exhibition games yesterday Cincinnati defeated Detroit 4-1, the St. Louis Cardinal bowed to the Chicago White Sox 5-2 and the Philadelphia Phillies defeated Schenectady of the Eastern League 7-5. Cleveland and the New York Giants were rained out at Chattanooga. So were Pittsburgh and the Philadelphia Athletics at Savannah, Ga.

The Cardinal-White Sox game marked the first time Negro players had teamed with and against white players in Memphis. Minnie Minoso started for Chicago and Bob Boyd, a Negro player who lives in Memphis, got into the game for the White Sox in the late innings. There was no demonstration of any kind from the crowd of 11,000.

Ferris Fain broke a 1-1 tie with a home run in the eighth inning to put Chicago ahead to stay.

Rosi-Compo Bout Tonight at Garden

New York, April 9 (AP)—Paoli Rosi, a new face from Italy with five straight American victories, tops tonight's St. Nicholas Arena boxing show against Eddie Compo, seasoned New Haven, Conn., lightweight with 84 pro fights.

The 10-round bout, a rematch of a Madison Square Garden semifinal of last Dec. 18 will be given the usual Friday network radio (ABC) and television (NBC) treatment at 10 p. m. (EST). Rosi won the first match.

A LEAD WEIGHT IS NEEDED TO CARRY THIS LURE DEEP. IT WON'T IMPAIR LURE'S ACTION IF FIXED 12" ABOVE LURE ON THE LEADER.

FOR LAKE OR RIVER FISHING, LET LURE SINK ALMOST TO THE BOTTOM AFTER CASTING BEFORE BEGINNING A VERY SLOW RETRIEVE.

FOR SLOW TROLLING WITH A LONG LINE, USE A LIGHTER WEIGHT SINKER SO LURE JUST CLEARS THE BOTTOM'S WEEDS.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Variety Trap Shoot Planned by Sportsmen

Woodstock, April 8—A variety trap shoot was planned at the regular monthly meeting of the Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club Wednesday night for Sunday, May 9, at 1 p. m., at the club. The suggestion was made by Aaron Van De Bogart that in addition to the trap shoot, a rubber tire be suspended between pullies, with a paper pie plate in the center as the target. There will be a ten-foot space between posts in which to shoot. Serving on the committee for the new arrangement will be Dick Whalen, Bob Holsapple, Ben DeGraff and Harry Ostrander.

The committee for procuring shells and targets for the shoot is Everand Short and Arthur Barone.

A cafeteria will be set up by the auxiliary of the club to provide food for the contestants. Prizes will be awarded which are suitable to the fishing season.

Dick Whalen and Ben DeGraff have been designated as a committee to secure spare parts for the new trap.

In preparation for the installation of a new floor in the club house, Lester Shultis has been authorized to order 2,000 feet of flooring for the purpose.

Harry Ostrander's offer of the moosehead, which he shot in Canada last fall, has been accepted by the club. It was suggested that this moosehead and another one, already located at the club, shot by Nelson Shultis, be mounted at the west end of the clubroom to avoid being discolored by smoke from the fireplace.

Plans were also made for a square and round dance to be held at the club, Saturday, April 10, beginning at 8:30 p. m.

R. M. Smith Lauded For Leadership Of Kingston Elks

Robert M. Smith of St. Remy retired as exalted ruler of Kingston Lodge 550, BPO Elks, Thursday night, and John L. Machone of 23 Janet street was installed as leader of the fraternal organization for the ensuing year.

At the installation ceremonies, following a dinner, Smith was hailed as one of the most outstanding leaders of 52 the lodge has had since its inception here.

Presenting Smith with an honorary life membership, and gifts from his fellow Elks, Joseph Disch, a past exalted ruler, who served as chairman of the house committee, referred to the retiring officer as "one of the most progressive in the history of the lodge, whose record is outstanding."

Praised for Program

Disch cited the activities carried on under the leadership of Smith, putting emphasis on his youth activities program, and other projects that promoted fraternalism among the membership.

Smith thanked his committees and the members of the lodge for their cooperation and urged that all support the program of the incoming ruler for the success of his term in office.

Machone was installed by Edward Forrester of Catskill, a past exalted ruler of Lodge 1341, and present vice president of the New York State Elks Association.

List of New Officers

Taking office with Machone were Charles Higgins, esteemed leading knight; Frank H. Simpson, esteemed loyal knight; John Sharot, esteemed lecturing knight; Dr. Morton A. Lown, secretary; Paul Kaman, treasurer; Harry Abramowitz, esquire; Charles Charmello, inner guard; Dr. Harry Meinhardt, tiler; Alex Lovy, and Charles A. Ryan, trustees; the Rev. Robert Shellenberger, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, chaplain.

Among visiting dignitaries of the fraternal order present for the installation were Leo Butts of Newburgh, district deputy; William F. Edelmuth, former mayor of Kingston, past state president; Surrogate Judge W. Newcomb Calyer of Orange county from Newburgh; Assistant District Attorney of Orange County Paul F. Murphy, Newburgh; Exalted Rulers Jack Early, Newburgh Lodge and Harold Chadderton, Catskill Lodge.

Don't let a used car's price tag Blind you!

Remember! It's where you buy that counts. Check the price, of course. But check the dealer, too!

An unusually "good deal" on a used car is not necessarily a good value. But we Ford Dealers can put rock bottom price tags on A-1 used cars because we don't depend upon used car profits to stay in business. We sell used cars mainly as a service to our customers who trade them for new cars. Naturally, we must keep these used cars moving to make room for the constant stream of trade-ins we get.

We know it pays to play square with you. We want your good will . . . your service business. And, some day, we want to sell you a new car or another used car. So our good reputation rides with the used cars we sell. When you can trust the dealer, you can trust the used car, too.

Don't let a used car's price tag Blind you!

Remember! It's where you buy that counts. Check the price, of course. But check the dealer, too!

An unusually "good deal" on a used car is not necessarily a good value. But we Ford Dealers can put rock bottom price tags on A-1 used cars because we don't depend upon used car profits to stay in business. We sell used cars mainly as a service to our customers who trade them for new cars. Naturally, we must keep these used cars moving to make room for the constant stream of trade-ins we get.

We know it pays to play square with you. We want your good will . . . your service business. And, some day, we want to sell you a new car or another used car. So our good reputation rides with the used cars we sell. When you can trust the dealer, you can trust the used car, too.
